11 Killed as Truck Strikes Car in Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A speeding pickup truck last night roared down the wrong side of a four-lane highway and smashed into a station wagon, killing 11 persons.

It was the worst auto accident in Nevada's history. The Nevada Highway Patrol said the truck was heading south on a northbound lane of U.S. 91, the major highway between Los Angeles and Las Vegas, when it hit the station wagon.

The wagon had nine occupants — three generations of the same family. The truck, equipped with a camper top, carried an adult couple.

All died before ambulances arrived. All were from California, apparently seeking an early start on the July Fourth holiday weekend.

The only survivor of the crash was a cocker spaniel in the back of the pickup truck.

Patrolman Richard McDermott said the truck went past a highway patrol checking station at Jean, Nev., about 32 miles southwest of Las Vegas, at about 60 m.p.h., on the wrong side of the roadway.

It hit the station wagon 100 yards past the station. Wreckage was strewn for yards around the crash site.

2 Persons Die in Auto Accidents

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of an Illinois clergyman and a farm youth in separate accidents have raised Wisconsin's 1961 highway toll to 335. The total a year ago today was 354.

The state has not yet recorded a traffic death for the Fourth of July holiday period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Tuesday.

The Rev. Dr. Hoyt Chester Woodring of Oak Park, Ill., and Larry Blaha of rural Hillsboro were killed during the day Friday.

Mr. Woodring, 46, resident Bible teacher at Emmaus Bible School in Oak Park, Ill., was killed in a two-car crash on Highway 14 just south of the Dane County community of Oregon. Police said his car went out of control on a turn and crossed into the opposite lane in the path of another auto.

Blaha, 17, Route 1, Hillsboro, was killed when crushed under the tractor he was driving after it left a town road in Vernon County and plunged down an embankment.

Bottom Ripped From Fishing Boat During Severe Storm

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A tale about three terrible days of a husky 14-year-old boy who watched two men die as they hunger, heat and blinding glare of a sun-baked sea and sky drifted on a flimsy raft was rescued Friday by a fishing boat 90 miles southwest of San Diego.

Transferred to a submarine, he arrived Friday night in San Diego. He was pronounced in fairly good condition at a hospital.

He told newsmen a rambling tale of terror.

The sea anchor was pulling on the boat, the boy mumbled and gnawed from sedatives, told newsmen. Two big swells picked up the boat and pulled the bottom out.

Grandpa Bradford said to cut the raft loose.

The three fishermen got aboard a six-by-three-foot raft of balsam wood and cork. Its bottom consisted only of rope netting through which a few timbers were looped, and water sloshed through the bottom continually.

They tried to attract several passing vessels Wednesday, their Flood swept away a home, killing a mother and two children, as the city received close to six inches of rain.

Fair and mild weather is in store for the next two days. After four days with temperatures hitting the 90-degree mark, Fox Cities residents can look for some relief Sunday and Monday.

Yesterday's high reading of 90 degrees was short of the all-time mark of 96 set in 1931. The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. reported .038 of an inch rain Friday, although some sections of the Fox Cities had no precipitation.

The weather bureau is forecasting thunderstorms today and tonight. Sunday should be mostly fair and cooler, while the Monday forecast indicates fair and mild weather.

Wisconsin's weather was pleasant compared to the storms which soaked other sections of the Midwest. Columbia, Mo., reported nearly five inches of rain. Rochester, Minn., received an inch of rain in a one-hour cloudburst.

French in Algiers Fire on Moslems After Mob Attacks

Rebels Swarm Into Streets As Nationalists Call Strike

ALGIERS (AP) — French forces in Algiers and nearby Blida opened fire today on Moslem mobs attacking them with stones and clubs. Police said one rioter was killed and scores were hurt.

The Moslems took to the streets by the hundreds, obeying a strike call from the nationalist rebel FLN (Front de Liberation Nationale) and savage clashes broke out with police and troops. Fifteen members of the anti-riot forces were injured.

Shortly after noon, however, the government said the situation was in hand and that calm was returning to a city which boiled with excitement throughout the morning.

Police and soldiers first fired into the air to try to halt the Moslems, who advanced on them shouting rebel slogans and waving green and white rebel flags.

French Fire on Rioters

Then, as the rioters hurled the French opened fire.

The Moslem's rage was directed at French President De Gaulle's proposal to partition the country after a negotiated settlement of the Algerian rebellion is not reached.

Bold young Moslems hoisted a rebel flag atop a building in a working class district and, for a while, a mob blocked off a police station.

The high pitched "yu-yu-yu" cry of Moslem women shrilled in the quarter. For centuries, Moslem women have urged their men on to war with the high weird call.

Swinging clubs, police rushed groups of Moslems in Algiers where defiant youths shouted the slogans of the rebellion against French rule.

Authorities reported the port of Oran to the west, was the

Freighter Attacked While Loading Wheat In Canadian Port

SEPT-ILES QUE (AP) — The freighter Wheat King was sailing for London today after a mysterious gun battle in Sept-Iles harbor.

The grain carrier, owned by Island Shipping Ltd., of Hamilton, Bermuda, was attacked by a small craft while at anchor early yesterday.

The captain said a small orange-colored boat circled the Wheat King, beamed a light on its hull, and started shooting.

The freighter's officers returned fire with a .22-caliber rifle and drove off the attackers.

Police said they are looking for two men in this area 325 miles northeast of Quebec City on the St. Lawrence River northshore.

NEA Supports Supreme Court On Integration

Educators Take Strongest Stand Within 6 Years

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — For the first time in six stormy years, the National Education Association today stands on a firm platform of support for the Supreme Court's desegregation order of May 1954.

In the last hectic day of a hectic week, the NEA yesterday adopted its strongest-ever policy statement on the issue which since 1953 has split Northern and Southern affiliates into bitterly warring camps.

It took two hours and nine minutes of debate before the NEA's representative assembly could agree on a resolution which pledged continued support of the U. S. Supreme court's decision on school desegregation.

Harmonious Session

In comparison to previous conventions, however, harmony reigned supreme. In the end, the resolution was passed by a large majority, although the white affiliates in the southern states were almost solidly against it.

In other sections winding up its 99th annual convention, the NEA also approved a resolution urging a broad program of federal support for education. Although President Kennedy's three-year, $2.5 billion program to build classrooms and raise teachers' salaries was not specifically mentioned in the resolution, this is the legislation the NEA wants. Earlier in the week, convention delegates had a message of guarded optimism from Kennedy, saying he hoped to sign such a bill before the end of summer.

Outrageous Slaughter

Governor Declares State Traffic Emergency to Reduce Accidents

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Gaylord to last through the long Fourth of July holiday weekend.

Nelson, in a move to curb the "outrageous slaughter" on Wisconsin highways, Friday declared a traffic emergency in the state period "to stay off the highways and remain at home." He pleaded with drivers who must be on the roads to exercise extra caution.

All police officers in the state were called upon by the governor to put in as many hours as necessary to "curb the mayhem our holiday traffic will otherwise inflict upon us." He said last weekend's 21 traffic deaths in the state was "a grim record of highway carnage for a weekend not including a holiday."

State Toll Climbing

Nelson's declaration was dictated from Hawaii, where he attended the national governors' conference, and relayed by his office.

Noting that the state's traffic toll for the year is near 400, or about 50 ahead of last year at the same time, Nelson said there has been no increase in traffic or other change in circumstance which would warrant such an increase in deaths. He called the deaths a "sorry tribute to those whose courage founded our country 185 years ago."

Cautious Drivers

Nelson urged drivers to use extreme care, drive slower than speed limits, stop when fatigued, abstain from drinking until arriving at destinations, and to refuse to take any needless chances.

Earlier Friday James Karns, state motor vehicle commissioner, predicted that a record 40 persons would be killed in the state during the holiday period if the death rate of last weekend was not reduced.

Last year 22 persons lost their lives during the Fourth of July period. A year earlier the total was 10 and in 1956 it was eight. The lowest toll in the last five years was three in 1957.

Dozen Jet Fighters Fly In to Guard Sheikdom; Iraq Denies Forces Massed

KUWAIT (AP) — A British aircraft carrier landed marines and tanks in Kuwait today and a dozen Hunter jet fighters flew in to help guard this oil-rich sheikdom against a threatened invasion from Iraq.

The government radio announced Saudi Arabia also is sending troops to bolster Kuwait against the annexation claim that Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem advanced a week ago.

Accompanied by two British frigates, the 22,000-ton aircraft carrier Bulwark put ashore a detachment of 52-ton Centurion tanks and about 750 men. These were about 600 marine commandos and a 150-man squadron of the Dragoon Guards.

The frigate Loch Alvie sent officers ashore by helicopter to confer with British and Kuwaiti authorities in this former British protectorate.

In Damascus, Iraq today denied massing troops on its southern border with Kuwait or in any part of Iraq. Baghdad radio said the denial came in a statement by the state-owned Iraq News Agency. It also denied reports of Iraqi vessels fired on Iranian boats trying to move food to Kuwait.

Kuwait's Minister of State Bader Abdulla Mulla announced that the government had requested an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council "to investigate threats from Iraq all week long Mrs. Evelyn Smith, wife of a worker at the plant, listened to speeches by strike leaders and watched the hold an extraordinary session Tuesday at Saudi Arabia's request to consider Kuwait's request to join the ten nation league, it was announced in Cairo.

Gets Life Term For Killing Dad

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Wayne Dresbach today faces life imprisonment for the fatal shooting of his foster father last Jan. 7.

Dresbach was convicted of first-degree murder after a one-day trial Friday in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court. The all-male jury recommended no capital punishment.

But her outburst had made its mark.

In the subsequent vote the strikers elected to defy their strike leaders and return to work Monday.

Said Mrs. Smith later at home: "I don't know what made me do it. But listening to all that strike nonsense made me see red. I'm fed up seeing my husband sitting around miserable at home."

"He is the quiet type and would say nothing. The union leaders just don't represent the men any more."

Said her husband, Ernest: "I was amazed. I had no idea what she was up to. Now I'm proud."

Police Find Bomb Near White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A homemade bomb found in an office building two blocks from the White House, triggered a search of downtown Washington.

Police said yesterday the bomb was similar to, but probably larger than two bombs which exploded in the downtown area two weeks ago. No one was hurt.

An anonymous telephone call told police that he had planted four more bombs at undisclosed locations in protest of racial discrimination.

Thunderstorms, Cool Weather Predicted

Wisconsin — Scattered thunderstorms today turning cooler west portions. Partly cloudy and cooler tonight with thundershowers in east and extreme south portions early tonight. Sunday, mostly fair, cooler south and east portions. High today 87 to 92. Low tonight ranging from the 50s northwest to the 60s southwest. Monday should be fair and mild.

Appleton — Temperatures for 24-hour period: High, 90; low, 67; temperature at 9 a.m. today, 63. Barometer reading is 29.92 inches. Wind is out of the west at three miles an hour. There was .038 of an inch precipitation.

Gen. Curtis LeMay is sworn in as Air Force chief of staff in White House ceremonies Friday. Administering the oath of office is Eugene Zuckert, Secretary of the Air Force. Standing behind President Kennedy are Sen. Dennis Chavez, D. N. M., and Vice President Lyndon Johnson. LeMay succeeds Gen. Thomas White who retired.

Concede Possibility of Error In 'Packing' Rules Committee

House Group Isn't Performing as Expected by Backers of Coalition

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Democrats who helped "pack" the House Rules Committee last January to break the control of a conservative coalition are beginning to wonder if they made a mistake.

On the basis of committee statistics, they have good reason to wonder.

The "packing"—ordered by a 217-212 vote of the House—increased the committee membership from eight Democrats and four Republicans to 10 Democrats and five Republicans. It was engineered by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., with the support of the Kennedy administration. Its purpose was to prevent the committee from hotting up legislation and denying the House a chance to vote on it.

Voting Control
After the increase voting control of the committee was held by eight Democrats friendly to Rayburn and the Kennedy administration. Previously it was exercised by two Democrats, Chairman Howard W. Smith of Virginia and William M. Colmer of Mississippi along with the four Republicans. Between them they had enough votes to beat any motion to send legislation to the floor. Such a motion loses on a tie vote.

first day on the raft. Although they waved rags and poles, no one stopped.

They had no food or water, only a few packs of cigarettes that Hartman grabbed before leaving the boat.

After waiting in vain for rescuers under a blinding hot sun, Hartman "went crazy on the second day," Terry said.

Lashes Body to Raft
"He started falling in the water and the raft turned over," the boy added. "Grandad got him back on the raft and gave him mouth-to-mouth respiration. But it didn't work."

After Hartman died, Bradford lashed the body to the raft. Then the boy continued, "My grandfather went crazy from seeing Al go crazy. He kept screaming and yelling and falling into the water."

"I kept telling him 'Grandad, don't die, don't leave me here alone!'"

He fell asleep, Terry said, and when he awoke Bradford was dead. He lashed him to the raft with Hartman—and drifted on. Early Friday morning, while fog hung low over the Pacific, the raft was spotted by seamen aboard the Ruth Marie, an ocean fishing boat.

One Body Recovered
Terry was taken aboard. The rescuers recovered Hartman's body but Bradford's body slipped from the raft and disappeared. The boy drank broth and later was transferred to the submarine USS Diodon, on maneuvers in the area.

He slept most of the time aboard the sub and spoke little of his ordeal. He came ashore in a stretcher, sunburned and shoeless.

He and his mother embraced tearfully. Terry's father, George McClelland, is estranged from Mrs. McClelland and resides at Salinas, Calif.

Terry told his mother "I'm all right, mother, but I don't want to talk about it."

After a brief talk with newsmen the boy was taken to Balboa Naval Hospital. There a doctor said he had suffered only from malnutrition and exposure but was in fairly good condition. The doctor added "His youth saved him."

Involved in Smith's original compromise offer.

"It could have been cleared promptly and would have been law now if the committee hadn't been packed," Smith said. "The packing relieved me of my agreement to vote in committee for the five major bills, even though I would have opposed some of them on the House floor."

If there is no school legislation this year, the blame may fall on those who engineered the Rules committee change. They have a voting majority on the committee—when they keep them in line.

County Judge-Elect Has License Revoked For Drunken Driving
RHINELANDER (AP) — Vilas County Judge-elect J. R. Dickerson lost his driver's license for a year today when Circuit Judge Herbert A. Bunde dismissed Dickerson's appeal from a drunken driving conviction.

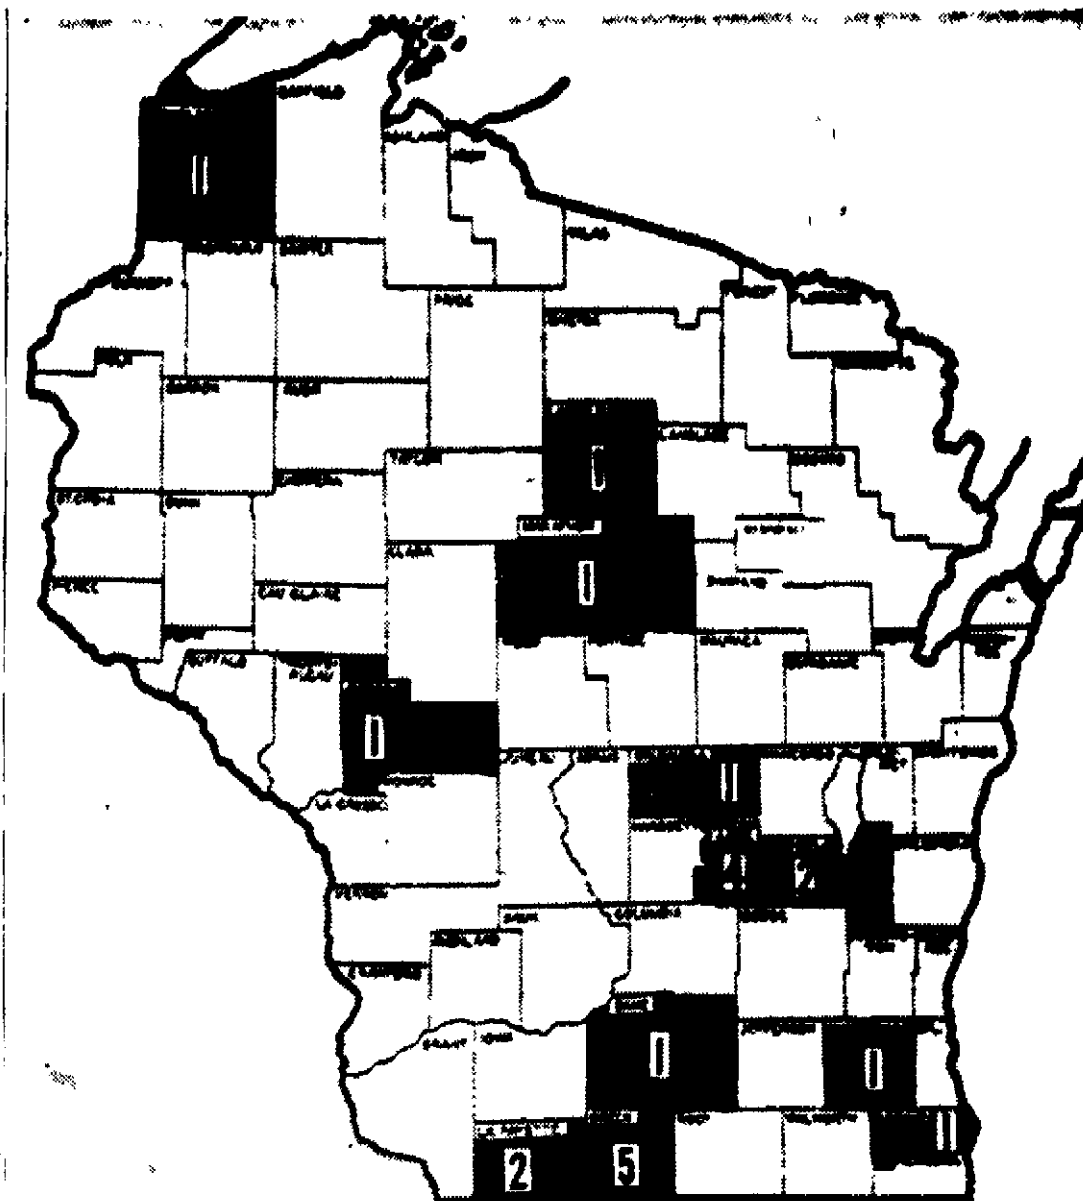

Dickerson was arrested June 12, 1960, at Woodruff, when he was Vilas County district attorney. He first pleaded innocent then no contest, was found guilty and fined $150.

Judge Bunde's dismissal of the appeal allowed the original conviction and fine to go into effect. Revocation of the driver's license is automatic in such cases.

scene of a Moslem strike but there were no reports of violence. Friday night Mohammed Yazid, spokesman for the rebel FLN, called from Tunis headquarters for a demonstration July 5 against proposed French partition of Algeria.

Presumably emotional elements among the Moslems did not want to wait and took to the streets early today in the steaming summer heat.

French President Charles de Gaulle, on a grass-roots tour of Lorraine, has told crowds that unless a suitable settlement of the six-year-old Algerian war could be reached, the French would divide the country between Moslems and the one million members of the European community.

This would mean that the European-protected by French military forces — would stay in the big coastal cities while the nine million Moslems would be left in the arid interior.

With the temporary breakdown of the French-rebel peace talks at Evian-les-Bains, France and the threat of partition over them, Algeria's Moslems have become increasingly edgy.

Apparently today's sudden eruption of shouting Moslems was the blow-off many feared would occur.

Soviet Spaceman Goes to Finland

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin made a whistlestop tour by train from Leningrad to the Finnish capital Friday.

At every station crowds assembled to greet him, and in Helsinki there was a near riot as Finnish police fought to make way for him through a mob of welcomers.

Gagarin, making his first ground-level trip outside the Iron Curtain, was met by the Soviet ambassador, A. Zakharov.

Life Preserver Law Will Be Enforced Over Weekend

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Conservation Department gave notice Friday that the state law requiring life preservers for each person in a boat will be enforced during the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

The announcement was made by department director Lester P. Voigt, who said "possession of a life preserver is a primary safety law on the water."

Voigt said that last year 170 persons drowned in Wisconsin, 47 of them in boating accidents. Only two of those 47 were wearing life preservers.

So far in the summer season, Voigt said, 386 persons have been arrested for failure to carry the proper number of life preservers.

London said the forces were moved into Kuwait at the "urgent and formal request" of the country's ruler, Sheikh Abdullah al-Salim as-Sabah and placed at his disposal.

Response to Request
"It is to afford him such assistance as he may consider necessary for the preservation of the independence of Kuwait in the face of recent developments in Iraq," the foreign office statement said.

"The secretary-general of the United Nations is being informed. Her Majesty's government earnestly hopes that the necessity to make use of this force will not arise. It is intended that it should be withdrawn as soon as the ruler considers that the threat to the independence of Kuwait is over."

The size of the force was not immediately disclosed. The frigate appeared in the mist in the Persian Gulf and a helicopter from the British consulate flew out to it.

Sheiks Pledge Help
Inside Kuwait, rifle-bearing sheiks swarmed in from the desert by limousine vowing to help defend their oil-flowing oasis against armored Iraqi troops reported massing across the border.

The roads to the frontier were jammed with truckloads of armed Bedouin tribesmen who have taken up arms in the service of the sheik.

Correspondents estimated that more than 3,000 tribesmen passed through in one hour bound for the border. Newsmen were stopped by police 45 miles north of the capital and prevented from heading for the border region 50 miles farther north.

The border was closed Friday night for the first time since the crisis was touched off by Iraq's claim to Kuwait, which attained full independence from Britain only two weeks ago.

The city prepared for another giant demonstration today against Iraq's annexation move. Posters were readied showing Kassem getting a kick in the pants and

British Move Troops
A British spokesman at Nicosia, Cyprus, said some British troops from the base on Cyprus were being moved to Britain's Middle East command which covers the entire Arabian Peninsula and Persian Gulf including Kuwait. British Royal Air Force transport planes were reported standing by on Cyprus.

Kuwait radio broadcasts said 8,000 British troops were ready to move in.

The U.S. State Department said Iraq had informed Washington Wednesday it would use only peaceful means in its attempt to take over Kuwait. A spokesman said State Department sources were incorrect in reporting early Friday that Washington had informed London that an attack on Kuwait was imminent.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said there are 430 U.S. citizens in Kuwait, including six consular officials.

Must Risk War To Keep Peace, Nixon Declares
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The United States must risk war on occasion to keep the peace, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon declared Friday night.

He told 5,000 delegates to the California American Legion convention "America is going to have to take chances. If we don't take chances, our position will deteriorate. We must be willing to risk war to talk the language of peace. I believe (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev respects our strength."

He urged support of President Kennedy's request for increased military strength and the administration's stand on Berlin.

To White House
Kennedy invited the Soviet negotiator, Valerian A. Zorin, and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov to the White House for a half-hour chat before Friday's wrapup.

Kennedy was reported to have stressed to Zorin the importance he attaches to getting an agreement to end the arms race.

The snail's pace of the discussions has added to a growing opinion among Kennedy advisers that no fruitful negotiations with the Russians on major cold war issues are in sight.

Instead, in the opinion of top Kennedy aides, the Russians are in a self-confident, non-negotiating mood based on a belief the tide is with them. The Russians, Kennedy aides say, have shown no signs of conciliation at the Geneva test ban or Laos conferences or in the Germany-Berlin issue.

Cold War Has Cost U. S. More Than $360 Billion

BY ED KANDLIK
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — The Cold War already has cost the United States more than $360 billion.

Here in the nation's capital there is little if any thought of calling it off. If we did, it would be an admission of defeat, spokesmen say.

They contend the Cold War is causing Russia and the Soviet bloc more trouble than it is causing us. Therefore we should, we must, continue it. Our survival as a free world is dependent upon it, they contend.

But the Cold War has been causing increasing economic problems. They showed up in an adverse balance of international payments and a drain in 1958 and 1960 on the U. S. gold supply.

Steps are now being taken to put the Cold War on a more permanent and endurable basis.

The new Act for International Development, which would continue the program of foreign aid to underdeveloped nations,

Ed Kandlik, financial editor of the Chicago Daily News, who reports on the economic aspects of the Cold War, has been in financial journalism since 1929. He is a graduate of the Northwestern University School of Business.

He has worked on Economist magazine, The Chicago Journal of Commerce, The Wall Street Journal and other publications before joining The Daily News.

bears a secondary title. "A Program for the Decade of Development."

While it does not lay out a program for a full 10 years in advance, the bill does contemplate the approval of commitments five years ahead.

Hard to Figure Cost

Putting a figure on the cost of the Cold War is pretty much an assumption.

Ask at the defense department and you're apt to get a blank stare. Nobody has bothered to figure it out. Then they proceed to point to a lot of pitfalls and ask a lot of theoretical questions designed to prove that you can't figure it out either.

One veteran Congressman here did a little quick mathematics in his head and said a cost figure of $500 billion might not be too far wrong.

Some of the cost figures are available but on only a minor part of the operation.

The Commerce Department issues figures quarterly on major U. S. government foreign assistance. It shows a cumulative figure of $82.7 billion for the period from July 1, 1945, to Dec. 31, 1960.

About $17.7 billion of this properly should not be classed as cold war expenditures. This consists of aid funds that might have been spent even if there were no Cold War.

Among these exclusions are parts of $4.8 billion invested in international financial institutions, $5.8 billion spent on civilian supplies largely before the cold war got under way, $1 billion of lend-lease expenditures, $3.4 billion of UN relief and rehabilitation administration and post-UNRRA aid, and a $3.3-billion British loan.

High Military Cost

UNRRA and post-UNRRA aid hardly be considered as part of the Cold War era. Even Russia and her satellites were permitted to be participants in these programs.

The big cost of the Cold War has been direct military spending by the U. S. government.

How massive this has been can be indicated by a comparison of budgets.

By 1948 the Cold War had not really got under way. There were differences between Russia and her satellites and the United States.

Russia had elected not to participate in the Marshall Plan and had forced her satellite nations to stay away from it.

Military expenditures had been shrinking since World War II. The 1948 U. S. federal budget provided for military expenditures of $10.8 billion. Maybe $10.8 billion is not a fair indication of what a proper peacetime military budget would have been. But it is the lowest that was reached after the war.

Any increase in military expenditures after 1948 might properly be ascribed to the failure of world peace to arrive as expected. The increase would then reflect the direct military cost of the Cold War.

Since 1948 the U. S. defense budgets have totaled $433 billion, compared with $140.4 billion they would have been at a $10.8 billion annual level. The difference of $298.6 billion represents a cost of fighting and preparing for the war.

Included, of course, are the costs of the Korean War, which started out as a "police action" but grew into a pretty hot affair before it was finished.

What have been the economic effects of the Cold War?

Since 1950 the United States has experienced the greatest prosperity any nation has ever known.

Employment Goes Up

Gross national product has grown from $284 billion to $500 billion. Employment, building construction, auto production, steel output and business indices of many kinds have hit new highs.

New records in physical output have been accompanied by a gradual upward creep in prices. Recessions, which replaced previous depressions, have been relatively mild and short-lived.

The big boom of the last decade has been accompanied by big government spending for defense and an upheaval in the defense-supported portion of the economy.

Cold War preparation maintained in California a large post-war airplane industry, which has been in transition to a missile industry. This brought large electronic payrolls to the Pacific Coast.

At the same time defense expenditures for the support of foot soldiers, such as tanks and other equipment, dwindled as the techniques changed.

This was reflected in lesser defense orders for such areas as Detroit and New England, some parts of which are now rated as "depressed" labor areas.

Prosperity in War?

Does the likelihood of another decade of Cold War hold the promise of a continued era of high prosperity?

Not necessarily.

Since 1957 the U. S. economy has shown signs of being laggard in many sectors.

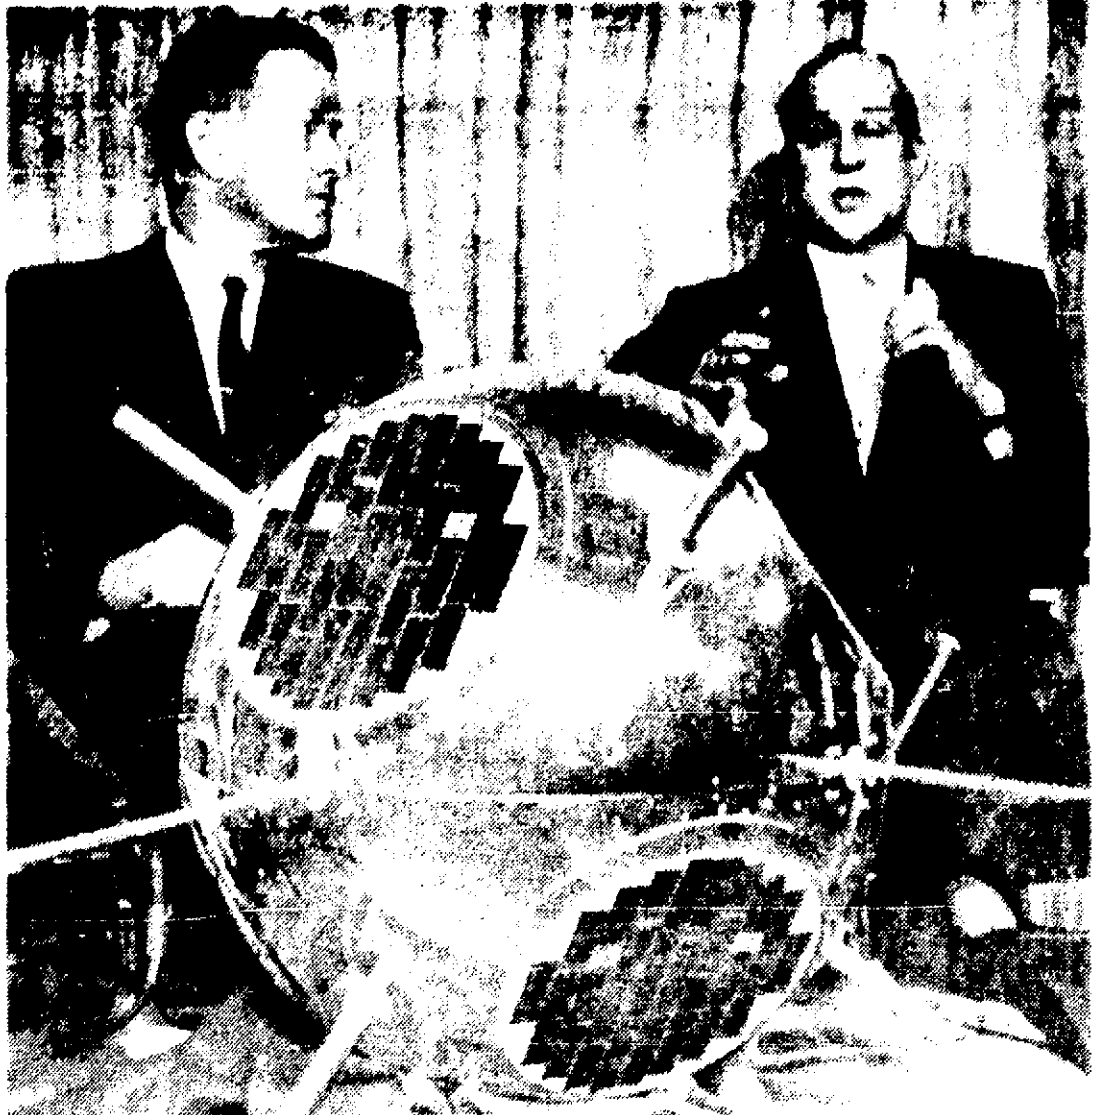

People complain of the continued high level of taxes, particularly income taxes. Autos prove hard to sell. The steel industry has been operating at times as low as 50 per cent of capacity and recently only at 70 per cent.

New housing starts have not been setting records. Prospective buyers complain of the difficulty of getting low cost mortgage money. Many of the houses that once were sold are back on the market for resale.

And apartments are standing idle waiting for people to pay the requested high level of rents, which reflect primarily a much higher element of real estate taxes to defray the costs of education and municipal government.

New Threat to U.S.

International competition poses a new threat to the U. S. economy.

The Successful Shooting of the triple stellite rocket was discussed by two of the men responsible at a recent press conference. Vice Adm. John T. Hayward, left, deputy chief of naval operations for development and Dr. R. R. Kershner, right, supervisor of the space development division of Johns Hopkins Laboratory are looking at a model of the 55 lb. GRE, one of the three satellites put into orbit by the shot.

Along the nation's seaboards foreign-produced steel takes markets away from U. S. steel.

Foreign autos compete with the U. S. product. In some fields — like textiles, stainless steel cutlery and transistor radios — the competition from abroad is even more serious.

Opponents of foreign aid complain that much of this overseas competition is the result of earlier U. S. aid programs that put foreign companies in better position to produce goods from a foundation of U. S. credits or grants in aid.

A competing supply of foreign goods has tended to place a price ceiling on what U. S. manufacturers can obtain for their products. With prices curbed and costs rising, thanks to new labor contracts, operating at a lower percentage of capacity, U. S. manufacturers are fighting to sustain their previous level of profits.

For some of these manufacturers continuance of the Cold War has been losing much of its appeal.

Just Idle Guessing

What would have happened if there had been no Cold War?

This is idle speculation. Chances are that many of the billions that have gone into direct military expenditures might have been channeled into more housing, better schools, more roads and similar products. But there is no assurance.

To date the United States has avoided the major depression that normally follows a major war. Had this hit, the nation might have been plagued by hard times, high unemployment, constantly eroding prices.

But nobody knows what would have happened.

Tricky Food Packaging

The American food packagers have been caught in a sorry mess. A Senate Investigating Committee under Sen. Philip A. Hart (D - Mich.) is beginning to discover and publicize things the American housewife has known for many months.

It is quite obvious that with steadily rising prices the food manufacturers have made an effort to increase prices without appearing to do so. In many instances they have continued the same size package and the same price while the contents have been reduced. Quite foolishly, manufacturers thought the American housewife buying, as an example, a can of peaches, never noticed that a half peach or perhaps a peach had been omitted from a can while the price remained the same.

What would make a food processor think that he could put out a 6-ounce jar with 5 ounces of soluble coffee and fool the American housewife who gives just about as much attention to such details as the coffee manufacturer does. Attempting to conceal the whole silly business by pasting on a flashy label offering 7 cents off is merely adding insult to the original injury.

The law requires that the net weight of articles of food be printed on the package. It is bad enough for the food packager to print this required fact in small inconspicuous type but he is most unkind when he varies the size of his packages from 15 ounces to one pound, 5 1/2 ounces, thus making it practically impossible for the shopper to determine which is the best one to select.

It is quite obvious that the food packager may have started on this wayward trail when he chose to reduce the contents of the package rather than to raise the price. But when one packager followed that course, it was almost inevitable that all others would be required to do likewise.

Thus the whole food packaging group appears to have been directed into a course of action which, while it may have been honest enough in itself, has made a mockery of the whole law on labeling.

There can't be much advantage for a food processor to put his product in a large box which is noticeably far from full when the housewife opens it. And if there were an advantage in such a shoddy trick, his competitors would copy it within a few hours. It would appear that the food processors would be well advised to get together and start over again with some honest packaging and honest labeling. If they need the help of a carefully drawn law to bring this proposal into being they can get it by putting their problem before the committee and asking for help.

The President on Berlin

President Kennedy put the Berlin crisis right where it belonged when he said at his press conference that it was manufactured in Moscow. After what almost appeared to be trial balloons sent up by Democrats about the possibilities of declaring Berlin a free city, the President's words are heartening. So, too, is the strong stand taken by Vice-President Johnson to the governor's conference in Hawaii.

As the President pointed out, there is peace in Berlin and Germany. Although Khrushchev made his first demand for Western troops to get out almost two years ago on the pretense that they created tensions, there have been few incidents. The West has successfully refused to deal with East German officials or accept East German passes. It has insisted the treaty establishing the zones in Berlin and Germany be honored.

Several weeks ago, President Kennedy emphasized we would help defend those people who were willing to defend themselves. No people could fit the shoe better than the Germans. The Federal Republic leaves no doubt as to its willingness to fight even the Soviet Union to maintain its borders and leave the door open for eventual reunification. The East German puppet regime continues to have its troubles with rumbles of rebellion and the stream of defectors who cross into West Germany.

Any backing down on the issue of Berlin not only would destroy the faith of all those who turn to the United States for hope and help; it would set up another crisis just that much closer to our own borders and ensure that the pressure the next time would be that much greater.

We do not expect East Germany soon will throw off the yoke of Communist oppression. We know there will be very difficult problems if the Soviet Union carries out Khrushchev's threat to sign a peace treaty with East Germany. There is no alternative to a firm stand on Berlin if we want our children to live in peace and freedom.

Spotlight on Kuwait

The announcement by Premier Kassim of Iraq that his nation would move to "protect" the people of Kuwait from imperialism has concentrated attention on the Middle East again after some months of quiet. And very likely this could be the reason for the incident.

Iraq has no historical claim to Kuwait whatsoever, although the area once was part of Saudi Arabia. Of all the Arab countries, Kuwait has used its tremendous oil income the most wisely for the benefit of the people. Free education and medical services were inaugurated months ago and the sheik has banked much of the $3 million a day income in London institutions. This is in severe contrast to the palaces, Cadillacs and extensive trips of many other Middle Eastern leaders.

But it must be remembered that the dream of Arab unity still is very much alive in the area. The United Arab Republic has made extensive plans for encouraging the cooperation of Kuwait through membership in the Arab League and the eventual establishment of a larger — and richer — Arab organization. Kassim also is for Arab unity — but with Kassim its leader rather than Egypt's Nasser.

Right now Moscow is far from happy with Nasser. He has complained loudly about strings tied to Russian aid. He has started a concentrated drive to get rid of his home-grown Communists. He is making encouraging overtures once again toward the West. It is very possible that the Kremlin at least suggested Kassim's declaration that Kuwait belonged to Iraq if only to warn Nasser that the Soviet Union has influence in the area.

Kuwait has an army of only 3,000 men and it hasn't fought for 40 years. It has eight old planes and four helicopters to put against Iraq's well-trained 60,000 man army equipped with Soviet weapons, MIG jet planes and Russian torpedo boats. But England's quick announcement that it would back Kuwait's independence with force and the denunciation from the UAR probably will keep the peace.

The incident should be a warning to Western authorities that Russia still dabbles in the Middle East. And Kuwait, by being a model of what can be done to raise living standards, also can embarrass leaders in the near-by countries.

Looking Backward

West Virginia Comes Into Being

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for July 4, 1861.

The Legislature of the loyal government of Virginia convened at Wheeling July 1. One of its first duties was to elect two Senators to represent the Old Dominion at the National Convention (congress) at Washington — the traitors Mason and Hunter having outlawed themselves.

It is conceded that the bold and gallant John S. Carlisle will be chosen as one of the new Senators. Probably the second will be chosen from the area east of the mountains.

The legislature assembled at Wheeling, although but provisional in its character, owing to the revolutionized condition of the state. The Senate will, no doubt, promptly admit the members whom the Legislature may choose. It is, however, the only constitutional body which can be recognized in the Union as the lawmaking power.

The United States government has already recognized the Provisional Governor and the Richmond usurpers are effectually outlawed.

(West Virginia was a part of Virginia politically until the outbreak of the Civil War when, in 1861, 40 western counties voted against secession and adopted a state government at Wheeling. The name West Virginia was chosen Nov. 27, 1861. West Virginia was admitted to the Union as the 35th state June 20, 1863.)

BY PHILLIPS MELVILLE

Summer was on the wane in wartime Philadelphia, 1776, and the city was alive with purposeful activity. To John Trottmann, 17, and on vacation from Princeton, its bustle was in welcome contrast to the quiet atmosphere of his home in the Barbados.

Late one afternoon he and his friend George West were exploring the waterfront when a group of rough characters materialized out of the gloom. A few abrupt

The international picture called for the greatest delicacy in diplomatic relations. The issue: should a foreign government recognize the flag of rebellionists? Would this be tantamount to recognizing the country? Sounds like a present-day diplomatic crisis, but it took place in 1776, and the flag was American. A retired Air Force colonel digs back into the past to resurrect this refreshing story for Independence Day.

questions and the lads were tumbled into a longboat, rowed out into the river, and hauled aboard a vessel there.

Thus somewhat unceremoniously, Trottmann and West entered the service of the Continental Navy aboard the brigantine Andrew Doria. Capt. Isaiah Robinson was commanding. Supposedly named for the great admiral of the Genoese republic, Andrea Doria, she was one of seven assorted craft purchased the preceding year as the nucleus of the new navy.

Since it was almost impossible to induce experienced seamen to serve aboard warships of the Continental Navy, where discipline was more severe, and the prospects for prize money less than aboard privateers, recruiting was in the hands of waterfront gangs, such as the one which had pressed the two boys into service.

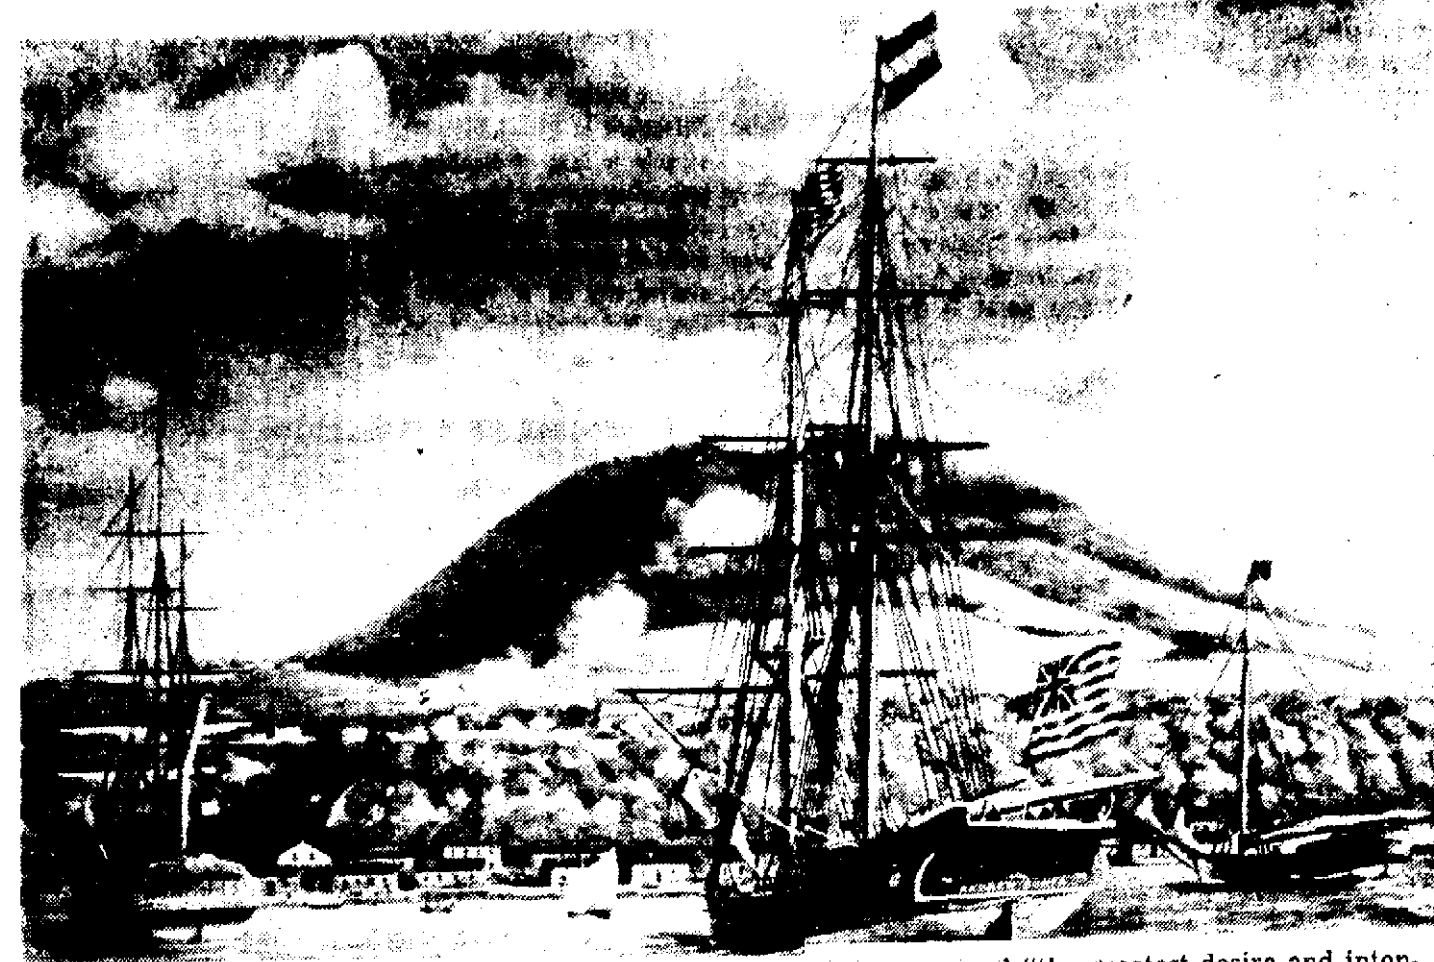

Secret Voyage

On Oct. 17 the Marine Committee wrote Robinson, informing him he was to make a voyage under orders from the Secret Committee of Congress, and on Oct. 23 he hove anchor. Consulting the orders, he discovered he was to proceed to St. Eustatius in the West Indies, to take aboard a cargo of supplies for the Continental Army, and to deliver a copy of the Declaration of Independence to the governor of this Dutch possession.

The quality of the service rendered by Trottmann and West during the voyage is not recorded, save for an affidavit in which Trottmann said "he was treated by everyone as well as he could expect, except by the boatsman, who beat him several times." The experience probably did Trottmann little harm, but

Old Glory Gets First Salute

The Andrew Doria, flying the Grand Union ensign at her fore and stern, receives the salute of Fort Orange. Once ashore, wrote an American agent, her skipper was "most graciously received" by the governor, who expressed "the greatest desire and intention to protect trade with us here." When American colonists sorely needed friends, a Dutch island governor risked political ruin by saluting the rebel flag.

Nov. 7. On the evening of the preceding day, he and three others were bringing the captian's gig back to the ship, when Trottmann perceived an opportunity to escape from his enforced service. He proposed that they row to St. Kitts, and his companions agreed. It took them all night to make it.

While Christopher Greathead, was digesting the information from Statia, British sensibilities received a second jolt. On Nov. 21, the Baltimore Hero, an Army privateer, had waylaid a British brigantine within sight of both neutral waters. Effecting beyond capture, the privateer sailed back in triumph to Statia, the Grand Union proudly spanking the breeze.

The captured vessel and its cargo were property of a British resident of Dominica, who promptly let out a howl of protest.

Governor in Dutch

After studying these two episodes, Greathead addressed an emphatic protest to the governor of Statia, asking that he exercise his authority "to prevent use his authority to prevent a rebellion." He directed his solicitor general and a committee to lay the matter before the Dutch governor in person. If he had hoped that the people of Statia would forthwith mend their ways, he was sadly disappointed. Gov. de Graaff flatly refused to discuss the contents of the letter he composed a reply in which he dismissed the allegations of aid to the American rebellion.

Nov. 7. On the evening of the preceding day, he and three others were bringing the captian's gig back to the ship, when Trottmann perceived an opportunity to escape from his enforced service. He proposed that they row to St. Kitts, and his companions agreed. It took them all night to make it.

While Christopher Greathead, was digesting the information from Statia, British sensibilities received a second jolt. On Nov. 21, the Baltimore Hero, an Army privateer, had waylaid a British brigantine within sight of both neutral waters. Effecting beyond capture, the privateer sailed back in triumph to Statia, the Grand Union proudly spanking the breeze.

The captured vessel and its cargo were property of a British resident of Dominica, who promptly let out a howl of protest.

Governor in Dutch

After studying these two episodes, Greathead addressed an emphatic protest to the governor of Statia, asking that he exercise his authority "to prevent use his authority to prevent a rebellion." He directed his solicitor general and a committee to lay the matter before the Dutch governor in person. If he had hoped that the people of Statia would forthwith mend their ways, he was sadly disappointed. Gov. de Graaff flatly refused to discuss the contents of the letter he composed a reply in which he dismissed the allegations of aid to the American

Stay-at-Homes Can Enjoy Fireworks, Too

NBC's Project 20 Plans More of Its 1956 Blast on 'The Great War' With Bennett Score

BY JINGO

If there are any families planning to stay away from the sundry fireworks displays Tuesday, it is a sure bet they have no young children in their numbers nor have retained that spark of excitement that must be ignited into "ohs and ahs" comes the Fourth of July.

However, the producers of NBC's "Project 20" must feel even those families who stay at home Tuesday won't mind a little vicarious fireworks. The prize winning network production company will encore its Oct. 16, 1956, blast, "The Great War," on the Fourth.

Although the show will be rife with the rare film clips that have come to be a trademark with the "Project 20" series, the highlight feature will be a score by Robert Russell Bennett reprising 19 of the songs popular during World War I.

The producers say World War II and the Korean conflict are the only two of the nation's embroilments that did not furnish a musical "Shards of the Ages," an ex-sal legacy. They contend "the animation of archaeological finds war was too big for the soldiers near the San Pedro River in the vicinity of the site of the discovery."

Perhaps they are right. Or of the 20,000-year-old Cochise maybe the really big war was Man. The "Focus" series makes fought by men and boys who use of shows produced by television doing their job with an eye vision stations throughout the nation to the future instead of the present.

It seems the songs Jingo remembers would back this up. Remember the fireworks over "You'd Be So Nice To Come Home To," "It's Been a Long, with its spy expose, "The Spy Long Time," "Don't Sit Under Next Door?" Well, it is getting the Apple Tree," etc.

ABC's "Valiant Years," the fine adaptation of Winston Churchill's memoirs, has become a part of our national archives. A copy of the 26 episodes has been filed at the Library of Congress. For those who can't make the trip to Washington, ABC will rerun the whole works again starting in the fall. Currently the series is being day with Edgar Allen Poe's "Wil- seen in Canada, Great Britain, Italy, Finland, Japan, the Philip- pines, Thailand, Mexico, Argenti- na, Brazil and Australia.

The Fourth will serve ABC as County Fair? He's left the profes- a setting for a "Focus on Ameri- ca" sequence produced by KTVK now. His notes now are guaran- of Phoenix, Ariz. The show will need by Uncle Sam.

Tent Circus To Perform In Appleton

Hagen Bros. Group To Give Two Shows Sponsored by Legion

One of the few remaining tent circuses, The Great Hagen Bros., will give two shows in Appleton July 13, sponsored by Appleton American Legion Post 38.

The three-ring circus will per- form at 2:30 and 8 p.m. at the Legion showgrounds at W. Col- lege Avenue. Each show is scheduled to last two hours. The circus consists of over 100 per- formers and animals.

Highlighting the 20 displays on the programs will be the Santigos family of bareback riders, the Zoppe troupe of jugglers perform- ing on unsupported ladders, the Sanchez Sisters performing on the high trapeze and the El Gran Trio of European acrobats.

Other acts are Capt. Grubb and his liberty horses, Hagen Bros. military elephants, the traditional caravan of clowns, wirewalkers and trained dogs and ponies.

The circus will arrive early July 13 at the Legion show- grounds, where the public can watch unloading operations.

Tickets are being sold by mem- bers of the Legion Post. Herdis McCrary is ticket chairman.

Producer to Present First Play by Actor In Former Production

NEW YORK (AP)—Philip Rose, producer of "A Raisin in the Sun" plans to present next a first play written by one of the actors in that hit.

Ossie Davis, who took over the lead role from Sidney Poitier dur- ing the Broadway run, has penned "Purdie Victorious."

The script is described as a farce about segregation and inte- gration. Davis feels the form is an effective way to tackle an impor- tant issue of the day.

Sam Levenson to Fill In for Vacationing Paar

Sam Levenson, who was on Ed Sullivan's show the other Sunday, will fill in for vacationing Jack Paar next Wednesday and Thurs- day nights.

Durward Kirby will continue on the Garry Moore Show next sea- son as well as play host on "Can- did Camera". He also will take part in some of Producer Allen Funt's tricks, something that God- frey did only once.

'Moon Camp' Proposed Before Man's Flight

WASHINGTON —(AP)— David Sarnoff has outlined a plan for setting up a well-stocked "moon camp" that would be ready and in place before the first man took off on a lunar flight.

In an address at a National Press Club luncheon marking the 100th anniversary of the military telegraph, the Radio Corp. of America board chairman said the camp—complete with food, water and power — could be set up through remote-controlled elec- tronic equipment.

He said plans for the camp, which could establish "a pattern for the construction of other ad- vance bases," have already been developed by RCA scientists.

Sarnoff also:

Proposes Research

Proposed a joint government- industry group to take part in a total effort in research and de- velopment on satellite commu- nications systems so "we can share with the world a remarkable tech- nique for nation-to-nation seeing and talking."

Stressed that regardless of who in private industry may own the satellites there should be direct access to them by all organiza- tions licensed by the government to operate in the field of interna- tional communications.

Said the United Nations should be given programming access to the first satellite television chan- nel for televising "live" to the whole world crucial sessions of the Security Council and General As- sembly.

Suggested explorations on the surface of the moon might estab- lish the practicality of installing there the first interplanetary ra- dio relay station capable of pro- viding communications with space vehicles.

Regarding the proposed moon camp, Sarnoff said:

"A combination of a Saturn rocket and ground control devices should make it possible to put on the moon's surface a roving ve- hicle and to conduct a survey for the most appropriate area for a manned landing. . .

"Then, through a series of sub- sequent Saturn shots, the camp could be established by sending up the necessary equipment and supplies, including a moon- crawling tractor for assembly purposes.

"This entire operation could be checked out by instrumentation controlled from the ground be- fore we commit men to lunar flight."

Auto Insurance Rates Lowered

Insurance savings for two-car families buying or renewing poli- cies from companies that are members of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters will be put into effect July 1. Approxi- mately 80 per cent of insurance companies doing business in the Fox Cities belong to the Under- writer's Bureau.

The Bureau has announced a new program that offers a 20 per cent discount on liability on each of the cars owned, provided that they are not used for business purposes and no male under 25 drives any of the vehicles. If one car is used for business, the 20 per cent reduction applies only to the pleasure car.

In addition to this reduction, a discount of 10 per cent for each auto will be allowed for collision protection.

Under the previous plan a 25 per cent discount was allowed only for liability on the second car alone.

Winneconne Boat Club Plans Sunday Cruise

WINNECONNE — A Sunday cruise to Calumet harbor has been planned by Winneconne Boat Club. Dan Bonnetas will be cruise- master for the trip beginning at 11 a.m.

Follow Easy Instructions To Make Corner Doll Shelf

BY CAPPY DICK

A screw eye is turned into the top of the two walls where they meet so the shelf can be hung from a hook fastened into the corner of the walls of a real room.

Wallpaper for the little room can be made by painting a design on white paper and gluing it to the wood. One area of the paper should be left uncolored to represent a window. A small outdoor scene may be pasted to this place and covered with cellophane which will glisten like glass. Tiny curtains for the window may be made of suitable cloth.

The shelf is easy to make because it consists of only three pieces of plywood. The two walls of the little room are covered with hand-made wallpaper, a tiny, hand-made braided rug is on the floor and miniature furniture is set in place.

The two walls of the room consist of foot-square pieces of quarter-inch plywood. The floor is another foot-square piece, cut on a curve between the two walls as shown in Figure 1. The three pieces may be glued together with furniture glue, or may be nailed with brads. They should be sanded to make the edges smooth.

Use Miniature Furniture

The braided rug (Figure 3) is fun to make. The strips of cloth should be half an inch wide. As shown in Figure 2, fold each strip in half, then fold the rough edges to the center fold. Braid together three long strips made in this manner.

Coil the braid and sew the turns together, completing the rug.

The articles of furniture are miniature pieces you would use in a regular doll house. (Copyright, 1961)

APPLETON—NEENAH

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Pity implies feeling for the sufferings of one who is regarded as weak or inferior. Sympathy refers to the sharing of feelings between persons of similar qualities. Thus: "The President expressed pity for the homeless children of the enslaved country." "We extended sympathy to our friends in their bereavement."

Often mispronounced: Abjectly. Accent first syllable, not the second.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: specious; apparently, but deceptively fair, just, or correct; appearing well at first view. (Pronounce spee-shus, accent first syllable). "His was a specious kind of reasoning."

Journalist Turns Talents to American Politics in Action

“The Making of the President: 1960,” by Theodore H. White, Published July 5, 1961, by Atheneum Publishers.

In “The Making of the President — 1960,” the Book-of-the-Month Club midsummer selection, author Theodore H. White writes:

“The Presidency hovers over the popular American imagination almost as a sacerdotal office, a priestly role for which normal political standards are invalid. The President—any President—is part of history, something which Americans, however mute their expression, take very seriously.”

In October, 1959, these words were as yet unwritten. White, foreign correspondent, editor and novelist, had just finished a highly successful novel, “The View from the Fourth Floor,” and was prepared to rest on his laurels—to enjoy his family, catch up on his reading, and loaf in the sun.

Projects New Book

But speculation regarding the coming Presidential election was already very much in the air. Would the Democratic nominee be Symington, Humphrey, Stevenson, Johnson — or Kennedy? Vice-President Nixon appeared to be a sure bet as the Republican standard-bearer, but how much influence did Nelson Rockefeller, the dynamic governor of New York, have with the party—and how did he plan to use it?

For a man of White's restless temperament and inquiring mind the opportunity to learn, as he puts it, “how a man sets out to become a leader of the American account are his incisive characterizations of two most prominent figures in the political struggle: “Poor from boyhood, able, intense, dark and watchful as he surveys the world about him, Richard M. Nixon has brought from his impoverished middle-class youth many strange qualities—the thrust of enormous internal drives, an overwhelming desire to be liked, and, where he is rebuffed, a bitter, impulsive reflex of lashbacks. . . . A brooding moody man, given to long stretches of introspection, he trusts only himself and his wife—and after that his confidence, in any situation, is yielded only to the smallest possible number of people.”

“John F. Kennedy, in his 14 years in politics, has had many servants, many aides, many helpers. As he has outgrown each level of operation, he has gently stripped off his earlier helpers, and retained those who could go on with him, effectively, to the next level. . . . In the personal Kennedy lexicon, no phrase is more damning than ‘He’s a very common man,’ or ‘That’s a very ordinary type.’ Kennedy, elegant in dress, in phrase, in manner, has always required quality work.”

Very little that went on during the crucial political year escaped White’s notice. An experienced reporter and editor, he had trained himself to interpret and analyze the facts.

Of the Democratic convention, for example: “From the sounds of lost and milling faces in the Los Angeles Biltmore, the press distillation of a swirl of truth which was a remarkably accurate historic assessment: that this was the convention where the young faced the old, this was the convention where one generation gave way idea for the general feeling that said in an interview, Quinn said the Republicans may grow out of a series of meetings try and to our party if we could. Quinn said the Republicans may at the 53rd annual Governors’ consult regularly about matters get together next fall, when a Conference which ended Wednesday of policy and perhaps meet to two-day conference of governors together from time to time.” Quinn on mental health tentatively has been scheduled.

Two Women Sit in the shade of the grandstand, listening intently to what Foxes field manager Earl Weaver has to say about the game of baseball. His players were in their positions in the infield and outfield, illustrating what Weaver was explaining. The first clinic, held in 1959, was so well received, according to general manager Bob Willis, that it was held again this year.

Foxes Field manager Earl Weaver shows the group of women assembled on the field the right way to hold a baseball bat. A number of young sons and daughters accompanied their mothers to Thursday morning's clinic at Goodland Field. Tips on how to be an intelligent baseball fan were given to the women.

Women Learn Inside, Outside of Baseball At Morning Clinic Conducted by Foxes

Women of the Fox Cities learned the finer points of baseball from Foxes field manager Earl Weaver and team members at a morning clinic Thursday at Goodland Field. Fox Cities Baseball Club, Inc., sponsored the event, second since the team has been in Appleton.

Brave Elements

Nearly 50 women braved the heat, high humidity and morning sun, and came out to the field to gain a more thorough understanding of the game that is foremost in summer entertainment.

While Weaver explained the various plays, including bunting, squeeze plays, stealing, balks and sliding, among others, his players demonstrated the maneuvers. The women also learned the rules of scoring.

After the session, the women were invited onto the field to practice what they had just learned.

Foxes Second Baseman, Photo Anthony, gives Mrs. Marvin Green a few tips on how to slide into base. The women also learned the benefits of pitching either a right or left handed pitcher, the hit and run play and the various signals catchers, pitchers, base runners and coaches must use. Your Problems Polishing Husband's Shoes Falls In 'Extra Services' Category

DEAR ANN LANDERS: First let me say I am not lazy. I work 40 hours a week for an oil company. I also take care of my home, do the cooking, cleaning, washing and ironing. I work in the garden, feed the dogs and invite my in-laws over for dinner often. I'm not complaining. Many women do as much or more. But the other evening we had friends in and one gal informed me that it is a wife's duty to polish her husband's shoes. My husband lit up like a Christmas tree at this outrageous bit of nonsense. I was furious.

Please tell me, am I behind the times or what? I'd like to have your opinion.—La Fay-Ett

Dear La: I'd say you put in a full day without doubling as shoe-shine boy. A woman should polish her husband's shoes only if it is a labor of love. But it's above and beyond duty.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 15 I asked my mother's advice on going steady. She said, "Don't limit yourself to one fellow. The world is filled with interesting people to learn from." I ignored her and went steady for two years. Suddenly I realized I was sacrificing a lot for that "social security."

Now at 22 I'm engaged to a terrific guy—the best of the lot. I know he's the best because I've dated tall ones, shrimps, homely Joes, handsome Harrys, Ivy Leaguers, beatniks, bores and egg-heads.

Take it from me, girls, it's a mistake to tie up with one fellow and waste years. The old excuse is "I like him better than anyone else." But how do you know? Play the field and compare. Only then will you be sure.—I Did.

Dear Did: Thanks a million—you said it far better than I could. Heartiest congratulations and best wishes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law is a very poor housekeeper. She thinks it's a waste of time to straighten up a house. According to her it's no use because it just gets messed up again the next day.

My brother is used to an immaculate home and orderly surroundings. He is a very nice person, easy to get along with, and the Wolf High School, Manawa, never complains. But I know it and her husband is an alumnus must make his terribly nervous of Iola High School.

to live in such dirt after the way he was brought up.

I hope you will print this letter. It may save his marriage.—Concerned Sis

Dear Sis: I haven't heard too from your brother but I'm printing your letter anyway because it might help you.

Believe me, I'm not in favor of sloppy housekeeping but when a woman writes to complain about the condition of a house she doesn't have to live in, I at the end of the rubber. Just then my partner made a fruitly overcall of two diamonds and went for a ride of 800 points.

The rubber dragged on, and Kaufman cast a restless glance at some of the other tables, but the morbid curiosity kept him with us as both sides overbid and went down on hand after hand. After almost an hour of this, my partner again bid two diamonds and was again clobbered to the tune of 800 points.

Kaufman had come there to play, but he couldn't resist the temptation to make a last-minute change. "This is where I came in," he announced. And he got up and walked briskly out of the club.

On another occasion Kaufman was watching a low-stake game to pass the time until enough of the bridge cronies arrived to make up a table. After a short time, I strolled over and asked "George, do you want to play some three-cent bridge?"

"I wish I could," he replied wistfully. "But I'll be happy to

Teen Years are Time For Having Many Friends

BY ANGELO PATRI

"I am a girl of fourteen in the first year of high school. I have a boy friend I have known ever since I knew anyone and he wants me to go steady. My mother and father say I am too young for that and should mix more with other boys and girls. I don't agree with them. What do you think?"

I go along with father and mother. The early teens are far too early a period in the lives of boys and girls to make serious decisions such as this one would imply. At this age there is safety in numbers, safety meaning protection against acts based on ignorance of life.

Take Time to Learn

Going steady with one boy, one girl, limits the experiences boys and girls need, if they are to learn about the ways of other people and how best to adjust or to refuse to adjust to them. Life stretches out over many years and all the years must be lived with as much intelligence, strength and endurance, as much wisdom, patience and fortitude as the spirit can muster. Youth, especially extreme youth, has no lowly you a better chance of happiness in time to come.

Nature, gave you twenty years more time to learn something to grow up in, to prepare for a long span ahead. Better make good use of them now.

The Golden Years

Here's Progress of Man About to Retire

BY THOMAS COLLINS

Here is a progress report on the retirement of one individual, Mr. Jones. Perhaps you know him.

Twelve months before his retirement: "They're not going to get me into that gold watch routine. It's just a soothing salve that these bloodless, profit-mad companies rub on sentimental old men. I'll have my pension papers say I'll get $114 Social Security—in order and be out of here before they know what's happened . . ."

Nine months before: "I'm not going to retire. The best part of my working career will start when I leave here—with much more money than I ever made here. My plans are about worked out . . . No, I can't tell you what they are. They are of a confidential nature. But I can tell you I won't be working with such squares as I work with here. . ."

Eight months before: "My friends all tell me they don't believe I'm nearly 65. It's not like it used to be. A man at 65 is still young nowadays."

Good Deal

Seven months before: "You know, this Social Security thing is a good deal. I would get the maximum, but of course with the income I'll be getting from my new work after I retire, I won't be entitled to it."

Six months before: "Oh, the wife and I will probably take a little vacation after I leave. But I can't stay away for long. The people I'm talking to want me to go to work for them as quickly as possible. We'll stay a couple of weeks, maybe. Then back to work. . . Yes, we'll continue living here—in the same house. Going to one of those pension towns and sitting in the sun would be an awful life. Don't you think so?"

Five months before: "Is this the personnel office?" My boss said I could find out about my benefits here. . . On my pension, you say I get the first check on the first of the month immediately after I retire? Good. And the hospital insurance? Oh, I have to transfer it over to a personal policy? And at a higher rate? I didn't know that. . ."

Pension Details

"That's good about the vacation credits. You mean I'll get an extra check for three-weeks' salary if I don't take my vacation before I retire? That's generous. But no severance pay? No. That's in the pension?" Yes. . .

"No, I'm not interested in Social Security. I have some plans in the works. Oh yes, there will be income much too much for me to collect Social Security. Well, I think I'm sure how's that? If I don't apply now and then don't get the income. I'll lose some payments. . . What did you say the Social Security address is?"

Four months before: "Didn't Will Smith and his wife retire to some town in Arizona? You don't know what it costs a couple to live down there, do you? Have you got Will's address?"

Three months before: "You're

PET DOCTOR
By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Our veterinarian told us not to give our dog any bones, but they don't seem to hurt her. What is your opinion? Mrs. G. Klobedoz, New York City.

A. The rule of thumb governing bones is: "Give your dog a bone he can chew on, not chew up. A large beef shank or marrow bone won't hurt him, particularly if it is raw. Any bone that can be splintered (like chicken, rabbit or some steak bones) can cause serious damage, and even death if the splinters get impacted or penetrate the intestinal wall. The fact that a dog has eaten bones without ill effects for a number of years proves nothing. Sooner or later, his badly abused intestinal tract will lose its elasticity and cause him considerable pain. As I said before, in most cases it is safe to give large, hard bones. But your veterinarian had a reason for banning bones. Follow his advice."

Address your question to Dr. Moller in care of this paper. He will answer selected inquiries in his column, but cannot reply to them.

Large Assured Valley Accepts Tax Deductions

Outagamie GOP Chairman Meets With State Senator

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A skeptical Fox Valley state senator has been assured by a Fox Valley Republican party leader that most critics of a state income tax withholding system are willing to accept such an innovation in return for tax revision such as provided in the Republican-written bill now before the legislature.

Sen. Gerald Lorge of Outagamie County got the advice from Leonard Pasek, a representative of the Kimberly-Clark corporation of Neenah, who is chairman of the Outagamie County Republican organization.

Their exchange took place here as the legislative finance committee, of which Lorge is a member, held a public hearing on the revision bill, which is based on a three per cent general sales tax with modifications.

Lorge has been threatening to oppose the revision bill because of its withholding provision.

Expect Close Vote

When Pasek made a reference to his interpretation of public sentiment in the Fox Valley favoring such tax revision, Lorge demanded:

"Do the valley people also support withholding?"

Pasek said he is reasonably sure, short of an actual public opinion survey, that there is widespread support for such a device if it is a necessary part of "adequate tax revision for Wisconsin."

Lorge is in a key position on the tax question in the senate, where party lines are drawn so closely that if he votes against the bill, which will be up for a vote in his house before it reaches the assembly, it may result in the bill's defeat.

Legion Switches Date

NEENAH — Hawley-Dieckhoff Post 33, American Legion, will meet at 8 p.m. July 11 instead of Monday, as previously scheduled. Executive committee reports and the state Legion convention July 14 to 16 at Waukesha will be discussed.

Ann Reinke, 17, Oshkosh, has been nominated for the Young American Award for service and bravery in 1960. Miss Reinke was nominated by Gov. Gaylord Nelson, for her services to community. She served as president of the Oshkosh Youth Council during the past year.

Rep. Van Pelt, Agent Disagree on Outcome of Congressional Hearing

Tariff Commission Won't Honor State's Attitude on Employment, Solon Says

FOND DU LAC — A congressman and a press agent had different ideas as to results of a hearing on how increased cheese imports would affect the nation's economy.

An emergency congressional subcommittee heard testimony from farmers, cooperative leaders, industrialists and politicians President's press secretary, about at Retlaw Hotel Friday. Testimony from the hearing will be presented to President Kennedy by the committee chairman, Rep. John H. Dent, D. Pa., and to the tariff commission at a hearing July 18.

Rep. William K. Van Pelt, Sixth District Republican, attempted to get an interview with the President, Kennedy saw the opposition expressed to increased quotas for blue and cheddar cheeses would have little effect on tariff commission staff members. The President's concern among all people involved in the dairy industry, he said.

When the information goes to the State Department, the department will not think much of the small producer, but the foreign governments it must deal with, Van Pelt said.

Would Be Effect

Nic Spallas, coordinator for the subcommittee hearing, said on the basis of the testimony presented, he felt there would be an overwhelming effect on the dairy industry because the commission economy.

President Kennedy has the fi-always ruled against the local producer (dairymen)," Spallas said.

The dairy industry representatives opposing import quota increases were getting an almost defeatist-type attitude toward the situation. Paul Fullmer, public relations man for the Blue Cheese Association, said, Kennedy's approval of the committee and willingness to consider the industrial impact has given the men new morale, he added.

"I wish to contradict Rep. Van Pelt," Spallas said, because results of the hearing will be presented to the President. The testimony from the hearing will be presented to the President. The testimony from the hearing will be presented to the President.

"This has gained a tremendous amount of national interest and concern among all people involved in the dairy industry," he said.

Members of the committee and those testifying feel the subcommittee hearing is a test case for the dairy industry. If the testimony is successful in keeping the cheese import quota status quo, no industry representative there may be a different attitude toward the administration's farm policies.

Committee hearings are not only covering the dairy economy, but the impact of foreign imports a disastrous blow to the dairy on all segments of the American industry because the commission economy.

Lawyer Says More Imports Won't Hurt State Economy

Tight-Lipped Dairymen Hear Foreign Dealer Ask Increased Quota on Cheese

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

FOND DU LAC — A lawyer representing U. S. importers sat with his back to tight-lipped, grim-faced Wisconsin dairymen Friday and told a congressional committee greater imports of cheese would have no adverse effect on the farm economy.

"I'm at a loss trying to realize how imports have hindered employment," William J. Barnhard, representing Western Dairy Products, San Francisco, and Allied Packers Ltd., Jenkinstown, Pa., told the committee.

Barnhard was the only person appearing at a congressional hearing who spoke in favor of increasing import quotas of blue and cheddar-style cheeses. The committee is gathering testimony to present to a Tariff Commission hearing July 18 showing that employment and the dairy economy would suffer from increased quotas.

Guaranteed Market

"The dairy industry has a guaranteed market for its products," Barnhard said.

If the dairyman cannot sell his cheese at the market price the government supports it. If he cannot sell his cheese at all the government buys it and places it in Commodity Credit Corp. storage, he said. Imports of blue cheese affect only about 260 persons in the U.S., he said, not the thousands in industry. "There is no U.S. price support nor storage plan for blue cheese."

The sum total of imported cheddar cheese is 3 of 1 per cent total U.S. production, Barnhard said.

Imported cheese is limited to a specialty market because of its price, he said. Much of the imported cheese is purchased by foreign nationals, he added.

The Italians have an 11.5 million pound import quota in the U.S., he said, but have never filled it.

Jobs Affected

There are many jobs depending upon imports, he said, and they would be affected by quota restrictions. Many Wisconsin jobs depend upon export, about $600 million worth in seven basic industries including paper, he said.

There will be court cases against persons who charge sub-

Work May Continue through the Fourth of July holiday to find the cause of a ground washout under the driveway of H. Karl Schuetter, 521 W. Fifth St. A broken sewer, 25 feet down, is believed the cause of the cave-in, which swallowed up Schuetter's car in a 14-foot deep hole. The car was recovered with only minor damage. Director of Public Works Edwin Duszynski said a tremendous volume of water was encountered at 16 feet after Friday's rain. Digging operations were stopped and a pump operated all night. Workers are driving walls of solid timber sheeting to shore the soft, filled ground.

Taxpayers Group Endorses Joint City School District

Says Council Control May Help Keep Costs Down in Neenah Area

NEENAH — Neenah-Menasha city district over a unified district. Taxpayers' Association Friday recommended a joint city district including Neenah and six rural districts in the west and south. S. Norman Moe is chairman of the Twin City group.

Neenah-Menasha League of Women Voters, Neenah Board of Education and Lakeview School Board previously came out in support of a unified school district for the area.

The taxpayers' group said "both financial and educational program of the district would be completely independent of each joint city district would be desirable."

Oppose New Tax Unit

A unified school district was rejected by the association on the grounds it would mean "creating both municipal and school purposes and planning for future Neenah's bonding power growth of the municipality are and future public improvement potential without giving any greater educational opportunity than the more manageable joint city district."

Also ruled out by the association was a union high school which would be set up independently by the rural districts.

Want Council Control

"As a matter of fact, however, under a unified district costs could be higher, inasmuch as the cost estimates used by the state in its study were based upon the experience in the City of Neenah, Winneconne, with burial in High-which has been and is continuing land Memorial Park, Appleton, to operate as a city school district under the fiscal control of the city council. Taking away this fiscal control could result in higher costs."

Rep. William K. Van Pelt, R-Sixth District, tells a congressional subcommittee at Fond du Lac he opposes any increased imports of foreign cheese. Van Pelt was among more than 26 dairymen, co-op leaders and politicians speaking against imports because of the adverse effect they might have on the state's economy.

State Joins Cornell Traffic Accident Study

Today Wisconsin becomes the 21st state to participate in the Cornell University Crash Research Program, with the State of Cornell data to engineering search program, with the State of Cornell data to engineering search program, with the State of Cornell data to engineering search program.

The program is the Board of Health. Completed case histories, including accident reports, photographs and medical reports are forwarded to Cornell for analysis and statistical interpretation.

The program, aimed at reducing the excessive injuries occurring in highway passenger car accidents, has as its primary objective the study of the relationship between car design and injuries sustained by the occupants. It is estimated that thousands

Design modifications based on these studies, such as improved doorhitting mechanisms, recessed steering wheel hubs, padded instrument panels, and seat belts have been effective in reducing injury. The automobile industry has announced that starting with 1962 models, seat belt attachment points will be provided in all cars.

Cornell Automotive Crash Injury Research studies are sponsored by the United States Public Health Service and the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Neenah Man In New Post for American Can

NEENAH—Alan S. Cook, 505 E. Forest Ave., manager of the analytical services department of the Marathon Division of American Can Co., has been named controller of the company's Bradley-Sun Division, Union, N. J., effective August 1.

Bradley-Sun, one of American Can Co.'s five operating divisions, manufactures metal and plastic collapsible tubes, impact extrusions and injection and compression molded parts.

Joining Marathon June 27, 1949, Cook first worked in central production control. He transferred to methods accounting in 1952 and was appointed supervisor of cost estimating and profit analysis in 1956. Two years later, he became supervisor of central analytical services and was named manager of that department in 1960.

FISH CREEK — The Peninsula Players were blessed with beautiful weather and a most receptive audience Friday for the opening night of their 27th season. Even the theater and grounds show evidence of a vigorous new spirit which has been lacking for several seasons.

Lawyer Asks For Increased Cheese Imports

terfuge and underhanded dealings in the cheese import business, he said. Some dairymen say Colby cheese is the same as cheddar and is imported in great quantities because there is no import quota on that type of cheese. Colby cheese is different, he said, and has little effect on the cheddar cheese market as many dairymen say.

Barnhard was literally grilled by the committee which disagreed with him on every statement. They tried in many ways to prove Barnhard's testimony wrong.

"Isn't there a rule or law regulating competition?" committee chairman, Rep. John H. Dent, (D-Pa.) asked.

Artificial Market
We have an artificial cheese market in the United States, Barnhard replied. The government makes the prices for the farmer.

Every product we import we need, Dent said, yet Wisconsin farmers are paying for the storage of their own products while we import more foreign cheeses.

Purchase of foreign cheese helps pour American dollars into foreign countries and allows them to buy other American products, Barnhard answered.

"Is it in the interest of the U.S. to maintain the economy of Argentina?" Rep. Robert N. Giannone, (D-Conn.) asked.

Yes, answered Barnhard, because we are trying to prevent Communist influence and infiltration in many of the countries we trade with.

Just Industry
"I had hoped you wouldn't bring that up," Dent replied, because in these hearings we are trying to get only industry's comments. We must realize, he added, that the purpose of the players are to prevent Communist infiltration does have a great bearing on our trade agreements.

Two cheese company representatives testifying after Barnhard, disproved his commentary on effect of foreign imports on American cheese production.

The payroll for a Dodge County cheese plant fell from $9,637 in 1960 to $4,806 this year for a comparable period. Frank Ryser, Mayville, told the committee.

Loopholes Exist
"New interpretations have been placed on imports which allow cheese like a Dutch cheese to come in under a new name, he said. Often there are loopholes in the law which nations use to boost their exports of cheese."

Kenneth Hoyer Jr., representing Purity Cheese Co., Mayville, said his company's production of Gouda cheese had dropped 10 per cent and Edam 20 per cent because of decreased sales from increased import quotas. This has meant a cut in employment because of "faulty government policies," he said.

The cheesemen smiled or quietly clapped their hands throughout Barnhard's testimony when the committee made a point in their favor.

After the testimony one cheeseman told Barnhard: "I don't agree with a thing you say but feel you did a good job presenting your case. That's America. Let's keep it that way."

"The Pleasure of His Company" will run through July 9, except for Monday. The players' theater-in-a-garden is located midway between Egg Harbor and Fish Creek on State 42.

'Paper Toy' Firecracker Sale Illegal

NEENAH — A type of firecracker being distributed in this area cannot be legally sold in Wisconsin, Capt. Lawrence Malouf of the Neenah Police Department said he was informed Friday by the Winnebago County district attorney's office.

The firecracker is about two inches high and in the shape of a bottle. It is denoted by pulling a string at the neck of the bottle, blowing out the bottom of the paper bottle and sending out colored streamers.

Capt. Malouf said someone is posing as a distributor with a signed paper stating the firecrackers can be shipped because they are considered a paper toy. Merchants have been led to believe they are legal for sale.

Malouf said the firecracker can be shipped, but cannot be sold, in Wisconsin.

Boy Steals Car To Save Walk To Fair; Is Caught

A 15-year-old boy stole a car to save himself a walk Friday evening but was caught by Appleton police before he got to his destination.

The boy admitted taking the car of Robert Stevenson, 1310 S. Mason St., from the Trinity Lutheran Church parking lot about 7 p.m. He said he was bound for the fair at the American Legion grounds on W. College Avenue.

He was spotted by a patrolman as he came out of Auto Drive-In Restaurant, 1814 W. Wisconsin Ave., about an hour later. Two other patrolmen were called and the boy was caught at U.S. 10 and County Trunk A.

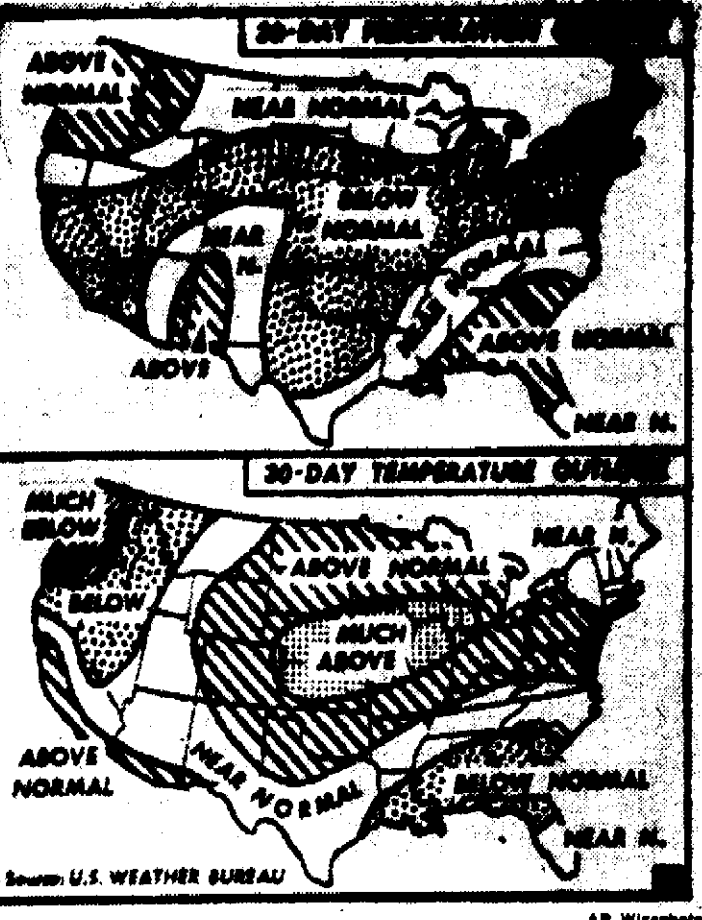

Stevenson reported his car stolen at 7:59 p.m.

Dairy Speaker Opposes Boost In Import Quota

House Committee Ends Hearings on Employment Impact

FOND DU LAC — Hand-picked witnesses, from cheese box manufacturers to farmers, spoke against raising or elimination of import quotas on blue and cheddar cheeses at a congressional hearing Friday.

Members of the emergency subcommittee studying the impact of foreign imports on the economy are touring Wisconsin cheese plants today in order to better understand the processes and employment requirements of the industry. Serving on the committee are Reps. John H. Dent, (D. Pa.) Dominick V. Daniels, (Dem. N. J.) and Robert N. Giannone, (D. Conn.) Also appearing in the interest of their constituents were Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier (D. Wis.) James O'Hara, (D. Mich.) Albert H. Quie, (R. Minn.) and William K. Van Pelt (R. Wis.), Sixth District.

John W. Byrnes, (R. Wis.), Eighth District, unable to attend, sent a telegram to the hearing. "It is difficult to understand the president's action at a time when the secretary of agriculture is asking for unprecedented authority to restrict domestic production of milk and its products. Should the president act favorably upon a Tariff Commission recommendation to increase foreign cheese imports and should the secretary of agriculture, under legislation, take steps to reduce milk production, the effect upon employment in the entire dairy industry would be sharp and severe," Byrnes said.

Production Cut
"American labor would be supplanted by foreign labor in direct proportion to the amount of cheddar and blue mold cheese permitted to come in. Dairy farmers would be forced to cut back production while markets for their product were being taken over by foreign producers."

One cheese producer told the committee it was not the quota that hurt dairymen so much but the price. It is difficult to compete when an Argentine product sells for 13 cents a pound less than the American cheese.

"We have gone through this farce with the Tariff Commission on several occasions and never get any satisfaction except hikes in quotas," L. R. Davis, Stella Cheese Co., Campbellport, said.

"In all fairness it must be said it is the foreign directors of the USDA who appear to represent agriculture, and we have every reason to believe they are far from friends of American agriculture," he added.

Farmer Speaks
A Brandon farmer said the Wisconsin farmer is very confused by government programs and regimentation. We should have a government by representation not by repression, he said.

Increased foreign cheese quotas would reduce the market for U.S. cheese containers, James Collins, Green Bay Box Co., said.

Merlin G. Bush, representing L. D. Schreiber and Co., Inc., Green Bay, said Canada cheese sells for two cents less than the cheddar duty. A three per cent decline in the Canadian currency value has lowered the price on the cheese by one additional cent, he said.

Canadian cheese can be sold in the U.S. with an added market value of 2.5 cents over U.S. cheese, he said. If import quotas are increased, he said, some 20 or 30 million pounds of Canadian cheese might come to U.S. markets.

Nic Spallas, coordinator for the hearing said he picked all witnesses in order to give a cross-section of the Wisconsin dairy industry.

Neenah Principal To Attend School

NEENAH — Neenah High School Principal H. O. Borgen will attend a two-week school on world tensions and education at the University of Wisconsin beginning Monday.

Speakers will be from the U.S. State Department, as well as foreign officials and officials from the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction.

Borgen will then attend a principal's conference at Boulder, Colo., sponsored by the University of Wisconsin beginning Monday.

The conference is one of 35 secondary school principals in the United States to be invited to the conference. Contemporary school problems will be discussed.

MADISON (AP) — Racine and Green County teams won top district honors Thursday in 4-H competition in dairy cattle judging.

The Racine County team of John Wilks, Henry Luedtke, Roger Springsteen and Ray Muteleski topped the southeast district title.

Green County team members Andrew Oliver, Dwight Hostley, and Robert and Virgil Leopold took the southwest district crown.

Driver Injured

MENASHA — Mrs. Louis Carow, 850 Racine St., was injured shortly after noon Friday when her car rammed the rear of the auto of Mrs. Frank Remmel, 855 Appleton Road, as the latter was turning into her driveway. Mrs. Carow was treated at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital.

Foxes, Bees Divide Tight Doubleheader

Starrette Wins First Game, 2-1

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Friday's temperatures cooled off somewhat in the evening, but the pitchers were red hot as the Fox Cities Foxes and Burlington Bees split a Three-I League twin bill at Goodland Field.

The Foxes took the opener, 2-1, behind the sharp hurling of Herman Starrette, but the Bees countered with Rodger Irvine in the second game and he stopped the hosts, 1-0.

Ford Posts 14th Win for Yankees

Tigers Edge Orioles in 12th; Angels Down White Sox, 10-3

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way things are shaping up, the only thing Whitey Ford has to worry about en route to his first 20-victory season is his own arm not getting hot.

The stubby southpaw nipped at arm trouble the past couple of years, has breezed so far while working and winning on a regular four-day rotation that has kept the New York Yankees in contention in the American League.

Whitey put away his 14th victory, top total in the majors, by winning his eighth in a row, with a five-hitter Friday night as the Yankees whipped Washington 5-1.

downed the Chicago White Sox 10-3. It was the Sox' third straight loss after winning 12 in a row and 19 of 20.

Struck Out Eight

Ford, 34, whose top winning year was 1956, when he had a 19-6 record, walked three and struck out eight, blanking the Senators after they scored an unearned run in the first inning. Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle drove in all of the Yankee runs. Mantle batted in two on an inside-the-park homer as New York came from behind in a three-run sixth inning against loser Dick Donovan (3-8).

That made Ford the first AL left-hander ever to win eight games in one month. Three right-handers — Christy Mathewson, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Jack Chesbro — hold the modern record of nine victories in one month but only one other lefty, Rube Marquard, had won eight before Marquard, a National Leaguer, did it in 1912 while running off a record string of 19 victories for the New York Giants.

Ford's success kept the second place Yankees within two games of the Detroit Tigers, who had to go 12 innings before winning 6-5 at Baltimore. Third place Cleveland clobbered Boston 10-2. Minnesota beat Kansas City 8-2 and the last place Los Angeles Angels lost 10-3 to the Oakland Athletics. The Tigers blew a 4-0 and 5-4 leads before ending the Orioles' winning streak at five on a double by Steve Borkos and a pinch single by Charley Maxwell off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm (6-7) in the 12th. Baltimore scored its five off starter Jim Manning, collecting two on a fourth-inning home run by Gus Triandos. Terry Fox (3-0) was the winner.

Three-Run Homer

A five-run fourth inning, capped by a three-run homer by Mike De La Hoz, wrapped up Cleveland's 10-3 victory.

Joey Jay Blanks Braves to Gain 10th Win of Year

Scatters 11 Hits; Spahn Chased After Hurling 4 Perfect Frames

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's fence-busting Braves turned day night before a swelling "singles" hitters against former teammate Joey Jay. It cost them a chance to gain valuable ground in the National League pennant race.

Jay surrendered 11 hits, including 10 singles, and walked three but was tough in the clutch in hurling the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-0 decision over the Braves Friday night before a swelling crowd of 24,184 at County Stadium.

The victory enabled the Reds to maintain their 2 1/2 game lead over second-place Los Angeles. The fifth-place Braves, who had won three straight and seven of the last nine fell 8 1/2 games behind.

Jay stopped the Braves' home run streak of 22 circuit smashes in 10 games. The big right-hander, traded to Cincinnati last winter, picked up his 10th victory as compared with four losses with ninth-inning assistance from Bill Henry, who came on and retired Eddie Mathews for the game ending out with runners on first and third.

Driven From Mound

Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn retired the Reds' in 1-2-3 fashion for four innings and had fans thinking about a no-hitter. Then he was driven from the mound in the fifth as Cincinnati scored three runs on five hits before Carl Wiley got the side out.

A two-run single by Jay drove out Spahn, who failed in his second bid for career victory No. 297. Spahn has a season mark of 5-9.

The Braves collected at least one hit in every inning but couldn't get a runner past third. The closest they came to scoring was in the first when Frank Bolling was tossed out at the plate when he attempted to come around from second base on a wild pitch.

Joe Adcock paced the Braves at the plate with a pair of singles and a double. Bolling had two singles.

Willev allowed only one hit in 2-3 innings. Claude Raymond hurled the last two innings, getting tagged for a run in the ninth on a triple and Frank Robinson's single.

Robinson got the first hit, a triple, off Spahn as leadoff batter in the fifth. He hoisted a drive which bounced off the fence in left center as Frank Thomas made a high leap. Thomas suffered a pulled muscle in his left leg as he came down on a water drum at the base of the wall and had an early appointment with doctor Bob Feron to determine his status today.

Thomas singled his first time up in the second, extending his hitting streak to 15 games equal.

Liston Apologizes; He and Friend are Cleared by Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles "Sonny" Liston, the no. 1 heavyweight contender, was cleared today of a charge that he impersonated a policeman.

A conviction on the charge might have ended the ring career of the boxer who has a lengthy police record and twice has served time in prison.

Liston and a companion Isaac Cooper, 26, also were cleared of charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Magistrate E. David Kaiser, who dismissed the charges, said the men were guilty only of errors of judgment.

The clearance came after Liston and Cooper apologized to Mrs. Dolores Ellis, 29, of suburban Lansdowne, whose car they halted in a lonely section of Fairmount Park before dawn two weeks ago.

Aberdeen Needs 2 Wins to Gain All-Star Game

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aberdeen moved to within two victories of clinching the Northern League all-star game Friday night by splitting a twin bill with Grand Forks. The Pheasants won the nightcap 11-5 after dropping the opener by a 9-1 margin.

Slugging matches marked the other two contests in the loop, with Duluth-Superior pummeling Winnipeg 15-6 and St. Cloud running away from Eau Claire 14-5.

Claude Meinhard shackled Aberdeen on two hits in the opener. Gene Orf of Grand Forks took batting honors in both games, hitting a home run and double in each.

St. Cloud's victory was strongly aided by manager Joe Macko and Bill Cowan who got back-to-back homers in the fifth to pull their team ahead. Cowan also got another homer and accounted for four RBIs for Eau Claire. Daff Vestal remained red hot at the plate, getting three hits to give him an .800 average for the last 10 times at bat.

New London Rallies to Nip Kimberly

NEW LONDON — The New London American Legion baseball team rallied for four runs in the last of the ninth inning to deal Kimberly a 9-8 setback here Friday night.

The win was New London's third in eight league games. Kimberly has a 2-2 mark.

A passed ball allowed the winning run to score after New London had counted three times on a walk error and three singles. With the batter trying to squeeze, a runner home from third, the ball got by the catcher and the winning tally crossed the plate.

Roger Dietz, who relieved New London starter Mike Herres, was the winning hurler. Tim Jury took the loss for Kimberly.

More Work, Scenery Change Turns Jay Into Big Winner

BY DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A change of scenery and steady work was all Joey Jay needed. After years of frustration with the Milwaukee Braves, he has blossomed into a big winner for the Cincinnati Reds.

Jay turned in a brilliant display of clutch pitching against his former teammates Friday night as he hurled the first-place Reds to a 4-0 victory over the Braves.

The 25-year-old right-hander, signed by the Braves for a $40,000 bonus in 1953 and traded to the Reds last winter, surrendered 11 hits and three walks, but bore down and worked his way out of jams. Finally, with two out and two on in the last of the ninth, he gave way to relief specialist Bill Henry, who preserved the shutout.

9 Wins As Brave

The victory was Jay's 10th in 14 decisions with Cincinnati. He failed to win more than nine games in any season with the Braves.

"I'm a lot more confident now," Jay said in explaining his success this year. "I'm getting the chance to pitch regularly and that's the big thing I know that if I don't have it on a certain day I'll still be starting again in a few days."

Jay noted that last year when he had a 9-4 record with the Braves he was more successful as a starter than as a relief pitcher.

"I won seven of my 11 starts but was 2-6 in relief, mostly as the 'long' man when I'd relieve in the early innings," he said. "This year I've started 15 games and haven't relieved yet."

Although he appears to be throwing harder than when with the Braves, the 220-pound Jay denies it.

"Actually, I'm not doing anything different," he said. "I'm just a lot more confident."

Jay's second shutout of the campaign left the Braves muttering to themselves. Milwaukee collected at least one hit in every inning and had two runners on base in four different frames. But Jay proved too tough in the clutch.

The Skipper Boat Bottom Rates Tops In Importance Hulls With Severe Underwater Damage Threat to Safety

BY JOHN BOHANNAN

The bottom of a boat is usually out of sight—and out of mind. That's why it's neglected. Hulls with severe underwater damage are allowed to deteriorate. Others, badly fouled, lose their speed under both power and sail, overloading engines and losing races.

The answer to all this grief is to inspect the bottom of your boat at regular intervals to make sure it is smooth, clean and covered with paint. Trailer boats should be inspected most frequently, since they are constantly being launched, hauled and beached, making frequent contacts with rocks, sand, gravel and the trailer itself.

Minor Damage

All of this tends to take the paint off the bottom of the hull, and may result in minor damage in the area from the keel to the chine or the turn of the bilge.

Every time you slide a boat along the sand it's like bearing down with a huge piece of sandpaper. When it's humping over rocks, it's like an encounter with a dozen chisels and gouges.

Bare wood is exposed. If left unprotected, it will soak up moisture concentrating in a small area to be trapped by the next painting and provide ideal conditions for the growth of dry rot.

The hull should be allowed to dry out thoroughly, then gouges, nicks and scratches can be filled with a troweling surfacer of the marine type, or with an epoxy resin preparation using a catalyst. In either case, the repairing area must be filled and sanded smooth, then painted.

Making Growth

Boats left in the water all the time present a different problem—marine growth.

In salt water the goose barnacle attaches itself to the bottom and produces such a rough surface that speed of the craft is greatly reduced.

Another salty nuisance is the teredo, or shipworm. This creature bores into wood, feeding on it and producing a network of tunnels. Eventually the planks become so weakened they must be replaced.

Door County Protests Huge Take of Minnows

Life Too Short To Enjoy Fortune

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It's a dog's life. Inherit a bundle, then you kick the bucket before you can enjoy it.

That's what happened to a Pomeranian belonging to the late Lillie Hudson Catrall, wealthy Miami Beach socialite.

When she died June 16 at 80, she left 1,000 shares of stock in the J. L. Hudson Co. of Detroit to her two Pomeranians. Immediately afterward one of the dogs became ill and was put away last week.

But that means twice as much for the other.

Under the terms of the will, Mrs. Catrall's cook, Helen Baker, will administer the money for the care of the remaining Pomeranian. The amount of income from the stock was not disclosed.

In addition, 7,000 shares of the stock were left in trust for Miss Baker.

Dedicate Fish Management
Experiment in Marinette County

Grant State Aid for Access Facilities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State aid for the construction of public access facilities on Haymon Falls pond, and Korth and Bahr lakes in Shawano County has been approved by the state conservation commission. The improvements will cost about $2,450.

Have you heard this latest story making the rounds at Heine Haupt's? It seems there was this Appleton man fishing the Little Wolf River the other evening. He cast a plug over the side of a big log in a likely-looking spot. There was a tremendous explosion—the bass missed the plug but swallowed the log.

What could start a man thinking about hunting at a time when it's hotter than the inside of a boilermaker's lunch bucket? In Both Barrels' case, almost anything can. But there came to this desk the other day some material from a sporting goods manufacturer including a color photograph of a black and white English Setter on full point. Behind the dog stood a hunter ready to fire. Both man and animal were framed against a blue sky and, on the ground, were the gold and red leaves of fall.

If you could look at that picture without getting just a little bit anxious for October then you better check your constitution because something is wrong.

Both Barrels has been abandoned in several letters for recommending that people fishing in Canada drink lake water. Actually, we didn't recommend it at all. In the accounts we wrote of our latest fishing expedition in Canada, Both Barrels said simply that our party did not take any fresh water along and that we drank right from the lake. That, of course, is what we did.

The safest thing, always, is to take fresh water with you. Or you can boil water from a lake or stream and then drink it.

Neither Both Barrels nor any of his three companions suffered ill effects from the Canadian lake water we drank. If we were to make the trip again we would do the same thing in that regard. Both Barrels once spent two weeks in the bush with a Canadian prospector and our water supply was wherever we found it—in lake, river or stream. The prospector said that in the way it had always been for him.

Tip of the week: When hunting night crawlers for use as fishing bait, most people use the grab and hold method. Try this system and see how it works. On the end of an old broom handle attach a block of wood 1/2-inch thick, 1 inch wide and 3 inches long. To this tack a piece of coarse sandpaper. When you spot a worm, pin him to the ground. The sandpaper will hold him without damaging him.

This sounds just dandy but you couldn't prove it by me. I've never tried it, being an old grab and hold man myself.

within limitations imposed by habitat. This theory of Kingston's was heard first in the early '50's when lake poisoning techniques were being perfected and widely advertised.

Poison Cure

Kingston never believed that poison was the only cure for sick waters, even some of the smaller ponds where controls can be maintained. And Caldron Falls Flowage, teeming with stunted panfish, was much too big and unwieldy for the poison technique.

Kingston preached that Caldron would support a good population of muskies which in their voracious search for live food would cut deeply into the overpopulated crappies and bluegills. The result: Good fishing for Wisconsin's trophy fish and smaller but healthier schools of panfish for the sportsman as well.

How Kingston's foresight in relation to a serious problem at Caldron Falls sparked a unique co-operative management project was recounted by Oehmke. He confirmed that surveys prior to 1956 revealed an unbalanced fish population consisting largely of small panfish, — few northern pike and minnows.

Breeding Population

It was determined that continuous stocking for an extended period would be necessary to firmly establish a breeding population of Muskellunge. Because of the magnitude of the project, the Conservation Department was unable to allocate adequate numbers of fish for stocking. However, Oehmke stated, with the generous assistance of the Wisconsin Public Service Corp., a long range program was instituted in 1958.

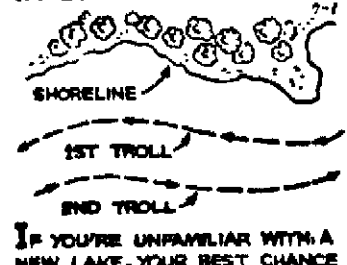

Objectives were to study the value of muskie as a predator fish to keep panfish in balance and under control, and to provide a larger species of game fish for anglers in the Caldron Falls reservoir.

Oehmke noted that Marinette County has no native muskellunge waters. Establishment of a firm fishery was certainly warranted in view of the heavy fishing pressure exerted in Marinette County each year.

Petroleum Jelly Keeps Pork Rind

Many anglers value pork rind highly as a sure-catchum lure. It's no wonder, because rind is versatile and a valuable addition to any tackle box. However, pork rind comes in jars, and jars can break or spill out their liquid, messing up a tackle box. Here's the tip. Place your pork rinds in petroleum jelly and wrap in waxed paper. The rinds will stay soft, there's nothing to spill and there's a lot less weight to lug around.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST TROLLING FINDS FISH IN UNKNOWN LAKES

IF YOU'RE UNFAMILIAR WITH A NEW LAKE, YOUR BEST CHANCE FOR SUCCESSFUL FISHING IS HIRING A LOCAL GUIDE—AT LEAST FOR THE FIRST DAY. OTHERWISE, TROLL ALONG THE SHORELINES TO FIND THE FISH, BUT DO NOT KEEP TROLLING THE SAME AREA AS SO MANY FISHERMEN DO.

MAKE YOUR FIRST TROLL JUST A FEW YARDS OFFSHORE, PARALLEL TO THE BANK. ON YOUR RETURN, MAKE SECOND TROLL A FEW YARDS FARTHER FROM SHORE. LETTING OUT MORE LINE IN THE DEEPER WATER (LINE MUST SWIM BOTTOM OCCASIONALLY). GO FARTHER OUT NEXT TIME, ETC. WHEN YOU HOOK A FISH, KEEP WORKING TIRE DEPTH AND LANE.

Longer Pheasant Season For State Shooters in Fall

State Says Bird Population Will Be About Same; Extra Week Gives
More Time to Work With Dogs

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

A longer pheasant season and reduced bag limits for ruffed grouse, Hungarian partridge and rabbits are the major changes in Wisconsin's small game regulations for this fall.

It's too early to know what shape the pheasant population will be in by the Oct. 21 opening but at least shooters know they will have a longer time in which to hunt them. The season will end Nov. 12 which makes the total gunning time 23 days or a full week longer than last year's season.

The reason for the extension is not through a belief there will be a great increase in the number of birds available. Some observers, in fact, believe the extra week will have little effect on the number of birds killed. The extra time will give hunters who run dogs a sort of time bonus in which they can work their animals.

Nesting Hens

A report from the department says the number of nesting hens this spring and summer is about the same as last year. The same dispatch says: "The longer pheasant season was authorized because many roosters that could have been taken by hunters were being wasted. Counts this spring showed one rooster for every three hens, at least twice as many as necessary for successful reproduction. Many of these extra roosters succumb to natural causes before the season starts. The additional week will give the hunter more of a chance to bag these birds."

Last fall, according to department figures, hunters killed 274,000 ringnecks. The bag limit, again this year will be one rooster per hunter per day for the first three days and two birds per day thereafter.

While the department says the pheasant population will be about the same, its game managers report the number of ruffed grouse is on the increase.

Ruffed Grouse

"About 215,000 ruffed grouse were taken by Wisconsin hunters last year, a decrease of 100,000 from 1959. The decrease was primarily a reflection of a drop in hunting pressure," the department dispatch declares.

These are the small game season dates for 1961:

Ruffed grouse — Northern zone. Oct. 1 through Nov. 14; central zone. Oct. 1 through Nov. 30; southwest zone. Oct. 21 through Dec. 17; southeast zone. Oct. 21 through Nov. 12.

Sharp-tailed grouse — Oct. 1 through Nov. 12.

Hungarian partridge — Oct. 21 through Nov. 12.

Bobwhite quail—Oct. 21 through Nov. 12.

Squirrel — Southeast zone. Oct. 21 through Jan. 31; northwest zone. Oct. 1 through Jan. 31.

Rabbit — Northern zone. Oct. 1 through Jan. 31; southern zone. Oct. 21 through Jan. 31.

Raccoon — southern zone. Oct. 15 through Dec. 31; Northern zone. Oct. 1 through Dec. 31.

There is no closed season in Walworth, Racine and Kenosha Counties.

New La Crosse Station

Chemistry Comes to Aid of Game Fishing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The powers of selective control of other aquatic pests, he said.

In Wisconsin today, for example, thousands of acres of public waters could be improved for game fishing if the prolific and nearly valueless and often harmful carp could be controlled or removed.

In other parts of the country other undesirable need control or elimination.

New Toxicants

In some Wisconsin waters a species that is desirable elsewhere may be harmful, such as bullheads, perch or crappies.

Dr. Lennon explained that the new LaCrosse station, not yet fully staffed, will be engaged principally in the development and testing of new and selective toxicants. New chemicals will need to withstand rigid requirements and extensive testing before it is distributed for general use, he said.

The discovery of a selective poison to kill the predatory sea lamprey in the Great Lakes makes scientists believe that such materials can be found for the selective control of other aquatic pests, he said.

Outlook Good for Musky Fishermen

Glamor Fish Has Hearty Appetite, Conservation Department Reports

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Conservation Department sees white bass are very good signs of good musky fishing in the running small, perch are good and catfish good. A few northern muskies are taken from the Manitowish river.

"The glamor fish is showing a hearty appetite," the agency added.

These big hauls were listed: 30-fish are running small. Northern musky from Moose Lake in very good on the Wisconsin river. Sawyer County, 19-pound northern Trout fishing good from Couderay waters; 21-pound northern from Polk County's Twin Lakes and trout up to 20 pounds via trolling on Big Green Lake.

There were numerous reports of good bass fishing and fewer of walleye action. Pan fishing remained good but with spawning almost over, deeper water is the best bet.

Waupaca County — Warden Rex Oatman: The best pan fishing has been on Partridge, Partridge Crop, Shadow, North, Graham and Upper Chain O'Lakes; night crawlers and worms are the best baits. Bass good on the Waupaca and Little Wolf rivers; floating the river with a skiff or canoe has brought the best results. Some northern and bass are being caught on Bear Lake. Lake trout fishing is best on Bear, Shadow and Chain O'Lakes. Stream trout fishing is best on Emmons creek and Crystal and Little Wolf Rivers.

Winnebago County — Warden Frank Deringer: Fishing for all species on the entire Fox and Wolf river waterways, including Lake Winnebago is slow to fair.

Calumet County — Warden Keith Reichenbach: On Lake Winnebago.

Forest County — Warden C. W. Sundberg: Pan fishing very good in all lakes. Bass fair in Riley and Pine lakes. Walleyes poor. Northern fair in Riley, Pine and Bishop lakes. Trout fair with waters high.

Lincoln County — Wardens Don Manthei and Herb Carow: Bass good on Harrison lakes and Wisconsin river flowages. Pan fish good on all waters. Trout good on Prairie River, north branch of the Pine River; flies are taking the most fish. Walleyes and northern fair on all waters. Muskies fair on Alexander and Mohawks flowages.

Marathon County — Warden Harry Bonner: Fishing has improved somewhat over last week. Bass are becoming more active on Lake Wausau with a few good catches reported on artificial bait. Pan fishing in deep water with worms fair. Muskies active on Rib River.

The town board has sent a resolution to the state conservation commission asserting that if the state agency "insists that there be public access to all of our lakes, the conservation department should police each access."

3 Men Deny Topsy Driving

Two Arrested by Appleton Police; One in Seymour

Three men have denied drunken driving charges in Municipal Court.

Raymond J. Benz, 42, 1111 N. Durkee St., was arrested for drunken driving Saturday after Appleton police stopped him at Division Street and Wisconsin Avenue. He drove fast and erratically, police said. Benz refused the drunkometer test.

Donald Wendt, 18, route 2, Appleton, was involved in an accident June 26 at Spencer Street and Casanova Drive. Appleton police arrested him when they went to investigate. The car Wendt drove left the road, went into a ditch and knocked over a mail box, police said.

Smith posted a bond of $138.95 and will go on trial June 30. Wendt furnished a bond of $168.95 and trial was set for Jan. 25, 1962. Benz' trial will be Jan. 13. He posted a $125 bond.

K of C Seats New Officers

KIMBERLY — Installation of officers was held at a meeting of the Father Vandenberg council of the Knights of Columbus Thursday night.

Assuming duties were John Kools, grand knight; Nick Ruys, deputy grand knight; Ted Clark, chancellor; Dr. Michael Canon, recording secretary; Eugene Schuh, treasurer; Marvin Schines, advocate; Paul Smith, warden; Ron Dietzen, inside guard; Charles Janssen, outside guard; and John Jansen, Ray Brock and Fabian Ourada, trustees.

Kools appointed James Lucy as program chairman and the Rev. Gerald Bousessa, assistant pastor at Holy Name as chaplain. Members voted to discontinue meetings during July and August although officers will continue to hold monthly meetings.

Change State Law On Tourist Publicity

MADISON — A new state law authorizes the tourist publicity section of the state conservation department to finance tourist advertising within the borders of Wisconsin. The department had been permitted to spend its promotion funds only outside the state during the last 20 years.

Editor's note to the kind lady who offered to send some money to the boy pictured Friday peering through the fence watching the others playing in the comfort of the cool waters of Mead Park pool:

It wasn't financial problems that kept the boy out of the pool. He very cooperatively posed for the picture. And as for the little girl who lost her popsicle — the photographer replaced it for her.

Girl, 5½, Receives Cut Knee When Hit by Auto

Francine VanDenAcker, 5½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin VanDenAcker, 733 W. Commercial St., received a cut knee when she was hit by a car Friday afternoon.

Mrs. VanDenAcker and her three children were crossing Richmond Street at Wisconsin Avenue when a car driven by Eugene P. Meulemans, 19, 722 W. Kamps Ave., made a left turn. Francine and a baby buggy carrying 5-month-old Patricia VanDenAcker were struck. Patricia was not hurt.

The mother said she realized that they were going to be hit and tried to turn the buggy out of the car's path. Meulemans said he didn't see the family in time.

Sales Manager at K-C Office Dies

NEENAH — Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church for C. W. (Chet) Miller, 63, 120 Fifth St. Neenah. He died early this morning after a short illness.

A life-long resident of Neenah he was serving as manager of sales offices of the Kimberly-Clark Corp. where he had been employed for 47 years. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and two grandchildren.

Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Explosion Starts Fire In House Trailer On Back of Pickup

An explosion in a house trailer mounted on a pickup truck set fire to the ceiling and the curtains at 12:17 p. m. Friday.

The fire department quickly extinguished the fire in the 200 block of E. Washington St. The blast blew out the window in the trailer's door.

Fire Chief Alfred Arnold theorized that the explosion occurred after a pilot light in the refrigerator set off an accumulation of hot gas.

Mrs. LaVerne Coughlin

Milwaukee, Wis.
Age 44, passed away at 4 p. m. Friday after a long illness. She was born Nov. 12, 1916 in Seymour, Wis., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bunkelman, and attended schools in Seymour. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the Hawley Dieckhoff American Legion Post and the Neenah Club. He was a World War I veteran. Survivors are his wife, Ruth E.; one daughter, Mrs. Walter J. (Joan) Handley, Niagara, Wis.; and two grandchildren. Funeral services will be Monday at 3:30 p. m. at the Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, Neenah, with Rev.

Girl, 14, Takes Wheel, 5 Injured At Green Bay

GREEN BAY (AP) — Five persons suffered minor injuries early today after a 14-year old girl took the wheel of a car which Missed a turn.

Went over shrubbery.

Struck the rear of a car in a garage.

Forced the car through the back wall of the garage, and Wound up in the spot formerly occupied by the first auto.

She told police she was attempting to make a turn and apparently hit the gas pedal instead of the brake.

Douglas Cleerman, 21, owner of the car, said he allowed the girl to drive because he did not have a driver's license.

He was charged with allowing an unauthorized person to operate his car while the girl was charged with driving without a license.

Playgrounds to Close for Holiday

The city's playgrounds will be closed Monday and Tuesday for the July 4 holiday.

"The Battle of the Sexes" will be fought at 7 p. m. Wednesday with boys and girls pitted against each other in a human checkers game. The following teams will play: Pius girls versus Columbus boys, Erb girls vs. Huntley boys, Linwood boys vs. Lincoln girls, Pierce girls vs. Jones boys, McKinley girls vs. Madison boys, and Telulah boys vs. City Park girls.

The chief activities Thursday night will be puppet shows at 7 p. m. at Jones and City Parks and a "Rock 'n' Roll" dance at Telulah. The other playgrounds will hold quiz programs.

Little theater rehearsals will round out the week Friday. Rehearsals of "The Red Shoes" are scheduled at the drama studio from 10 to 11:30 p. m.

Conservative Group To Meet in Appleton

Wisconsin Better Government Committee, a conservative non-partisan political organization, will meet in Appleton Sunday afternoon, July 23.

The group has passed resolutions "in opposition to government competition with private business and against the extension of state socialism." George C. Hildebrand, Oshkosh, is president. Richard N. Johnson, Green Bay, secretary, and Harold J. Olson, Milwaukee, treasurer.

Finance Committee Seeks Insurance Bids

KAUKAUNA — The finance committee of the common council is seeking bids on fleet insurance for city vehicles.

Bids are to be filed with the city clerk by 5 p. m. July 10. A list of equipment to be insured, coverage required and limits is available from the clerk.

Claud Henry Whaley

Prentice and Jessen Lead Women's Open

Defending Champ Betsy Rawls Holds Third Place

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — One thing appeared certain as the 15th Women's National Open Golf Championship went into its final two rounds today—there will be no scoring record.

Only a phenomenal sub-par scoring spree by one of the co-leaders at the halfway point would enable her to match the 287 record set by Mickey Wright of Dallas, at the Churchill Valley Country Club at Pittsburgh in 1959. And the lower course at Baltusrol, where the current event is being played, is not conducive to sub-par golf.

None Better Par

None of the 82 entrants has bettered par of 36-72 over the 6,722-yard lower course, and only two have matched it. Miss Wright and JoAnn Prentice of Birmingham, Ala., got their 72s to tie for the first-round lead. Ruth Jessen of Seattle carded a 73 in the second round Friday, and that was the best of the day.

It is a course which would seem to have been made for the long-driving Miss Wright, but the best she could do Friday was an 80 for 132, four strokes behind the co-leaders.

As Miss Wright faded Miss Prentice continued her steady golf, coming in with a 76 to add to her 72 of Friday for a 148 total and a tie for first place with Miss Jessen, the blonde sharpshooter with the spread-eagle putting stance. Miss Jessen added her 73 to her first-round 75 to match Miss Prentice's total.

Defending Champion

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., defending champion seeking Ohio, with 75-76, and Mrs. Marjorie fifth open crown, still was lone Stewart Streif of Fonthill, Ont. very much in the picture as the parlo, with 74-77. Marilyn Smith field of 41—the low 40 and ties of French Lick, Ind., is the pro the first two rounds—started the with 77-74.

Louise Suggs of Atlanta, twice Her 74-76—150 was good for open champion, was in the 152 third place, one stroke ahead of bracket with Miss Wright.

She sank the next putt for a par four. Miss Jessen shot a 73 Friday and tied JoAnn Prentice for the lead with a 36-hole total of 148.

'Tug' Wilson Offers Experience, Counsel to New Commissioner

BY JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — They took Tug Wilson out of the Big Ten today, but they didn't take the Big Ten — or his dedication to sports — out of Tug Wilson.

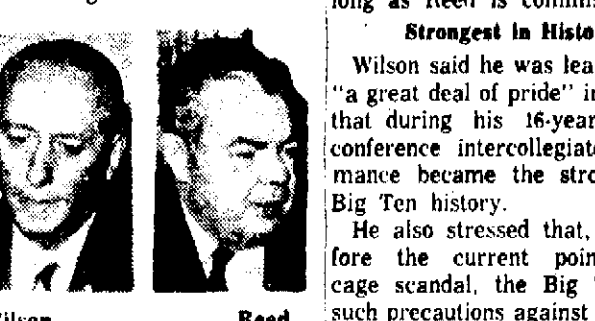

Kenneth L. ("Tug") Wilson, who turned 65 last March 27, officially offer my experience and counsel, if my successor wants it. I feel the conference made a very wise choice in selecting Bill Reed as commissioner."

Reed, a 1936 Michigan graduate, had served under the first Big Ten retired as Western Conference Commissioner today, being succeeded by his former assistant, Bill Reed.

Far from talking like an athletic war horse supposedly headed for pasture, Wilson pledged continued counsel and assistance to his 45-year-old successor and primed himself for a more active role as president of the United States Olympic Committee.

"I don't feel I'm exactly leaving the Big Ten," said Wilson, who had been commissioner since 1945, "because I'll be there ready to commissioner, Maj. John L. Griffith, and after Navy Service in main in an advisory capacity for one year. But Reed said Wilson can continue in that capacity as long as Reed is commissioner."

Edstrom Leads AAU Decathlon

Oregon Athlete Has 60-Point Lead At Half-Way Mark

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—America's topflight endurance athletes, with relatively poor performances behind them, went into the second half of the National AAU Decathlon Championships today.

Leading the 13-man field into the grueling second-day events was David Edstrom of Oregon, representing the Emerald Empire Athletic Association. Edstrom's steady performances in the five opening events gave him 4,023 points and a 60-point lead over Paul Herman, slender competitor from Westmont College, Calif.

Phil Mulky of Memphis, Tenn., limped through the track events Friday night but turned in sterling performances in the field events to hold fifth position.

Arizona State University's Don Jelsy, competing in a decathlon for only the second time in his career, swept through the competition in the first flight and held fourth place with 3,774 points, one more than Mulky.

Mike Herman of Yonkers, N.Y., was in third place with 3,950 points.

Edstrom turned in the top performance in only one event. He jumped 23.4 to lead the broad

Rich's Gains Sixth Straight Softball Win

Kaukauna — Rich's won its sixth straight game in the City Softball League Thursday night, pounding out a 9-0 win over Peter's Tavern behind the 1-hit pitching of Lou Rogers.

Rogers permitted a single in the first inning and then pitched no-jump phase. But his showing in the other events was steady throughout the evening.

hit ball the remainder of the contest although a walk and two errors got him in difficulty in the sixth inning. The winners managed nine hits off Cliff Hinkens. Duane's Bar scored an upset, 9-6 win over Shamrock. The win was the first against seven losses for Duane's while the Irish now have a 4-2 record. Roger Wolf hurled for the winners, and Bill Simon and Bob Allgeyer shared pitching duties for the losers. Both teams had seven hits.

Mullen Barbers took a 5-4 win over Badger Northland. Jerry Van DeLoo hurled the win, and Marcel Lamers was charged with the loss.
